Charter Investigators Query High School and Auditorium Building Officials

Members Report Both Structures Progressing Rapidly—No More Money Needed

Give Personal Views on Charter and Make Suggestions for Better Government

Members of the Lowell charter commission and 50 or more other interested citizens were given detailed accounts of the progress of the new high school and the auditorium building at last evening's meeting of the commission at city hall.

The chairman and other members of the two commissions appointed to supervise the erection of these buildings, as well as the architects, said that the structures would be completed within the available funds and on schedule time.

After answering questions pertaining to the buildings, several of the commissioners gave their views on city charters. John H. Harrington, chairman of the auditorium building commission, favored a governing body of 27 men, serving without salary. He believed the mayor should have more power. He also advocated the use of secret ballot in electing or removing department heads, the abolition of the purchasing agent's office, a larger salary for the mayor, the establishment of a public works department to look after municipal construction.

LOWELL'S OLDEST WOMAN VOTER

Lowell will have the distinction on state election day, Nov. 2, of having one of the oldest women in Massachusetts go to the polling booth and cast her first ballot. Luthera L. Wightman of 295 Pauline street, aged 96 years, was last evening registered as a voter of ward 7 at the special registration session held by the election commissioners at the C.M.A.C. clubhouse.

Mrs. Wightman is very active despite her advanced age and had little difficulty in signing her name when so requested by the election officials. She didn't express her views relative to candidates when registering, but said that she would do so on election day.

Mrs. Wightman is one of the few Lowell people who have their age after their name in the city directory. When the 1920 directory was compiled, she was 95 years old, and accordingly, the figure "95" appears after her name in the list of residents.

Speedy Conclusion of Negotiations Between Russia and Poland Expected

Lithuanian-Polish Situation, However, Seems to Have Become More Acute

RIGA, Oct. 6.—(By Associated Press)—The Russo-Polish armistice negotiations are being rushed to a speedy conclusion, but the Lithuanian-Polish situation seems to have become more acute.

The Polish official statement received today reports severe fighting with attacking Lithuanian divisions in the vicinity of Orany, about midway between Grodno and Vilna and adds:

"It is stated that Lithuanian troops are fighting alongside Bolshevik troops."

According to present plans which are not definitely settled, however, the armistice between Soviet Russia and Poland and the preliminary peace treaty will be signed at a public plenary session of the peace conference next Friday.

FUNERAL TODAY OF ARTHUR K. WHITCOMB

The funeral of Arthur K. Whitcomb, former superintendent of schools and for many years active in local educational circles, took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock and was largely attended by relatives, friends and men and women prominent in school affairs in Lowell and out of town.

The service was held at the First Congregational church, where Rev. Dr. George E. Martin, former pastor of the Kirk St. church, of which Mr. Whitcomb was at one time a member, and Rev. William B. Rutledge, pastor of the First church, officiated. Rev. Dr. Martin delivered a brief but touching eulogy.

During the services Mrs. Arthur C. Spaulding sang appropriate hymns and Mr. Spaulding was the organist. The bearers were Henry H. Harris, headmaster of the high school; John E. Barr, master of the Washington school; L. A. Olney, E. L. Fletcher, Frank E. Knowles and C. W. Hoyt. Samuel H. Thompson was in charge of funeral arrangements.

The school department was represented by members of the school committee, Supt. Hugh J. Melley, and a large number of teachers and officials, together with pupils of the Greenbush school where Mr. Whitcomb had formerly been master. The Lowell Teachers' organization was represented by its president, Miss Genevieve E. Lawrence, and other members, and several members of the municipal council were also in attendance.

All the public schools of the city closed at noon today out of respect to the late superintendent and flags were at half-mast on all the school buildings.

Burial was in the Lowell cemetery under the direction of Undertaker George W. Healey.

Woman Injured While Boarding Electric Car in Moody Street

Husband of Woman Seeks Compensation for Loss of Wife's Services

The sudden starting of a car of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway was the alleged reason for injuries which Lena D. Collins of 798 Moody street sought to recover damages in a suit against the company on trial before Judge S. E. Bishop and a jury in the superior court today. The suit of Frank J. Collins, husband of the plaintiff, for recovery of compensation for loss of the services of his wife was given a joint hearing.

Stelvin J. Rogers, in opening, the case for the plaintiff, said that Mrs. Collins boarded a closed car on Moody street near the corner of White street, early in the evening of April 6, 1920, and that she grasped the platform railing with her left hand and held her pocketbook and clothing with her right hand. He said that she had one foot on the car step when the starting

INCIDENTS IN THE SUPERIOR COURT

A patriot anxious to serve the community in a way that is not widely popular was discovered in the superior court today. It is the common opinion among those who are familiar with goings-on in the courts of justice that a goodly proportion of the men who are called upon to serve on the jury spend considerable time trying to impress the judge with their side-step the not over-exciting task of deciding intricate balances between rival litigants. Not so with the citizen in question.

When Clerk Hurd called his name as a jury was being made up, there was no response. There was a hurried conference between the clerk and Judge S. E. Bishop. When Mr. Hurd was about to announce the result of the conference, which might have been that a deputy sheriff would be instructed to camp on the missing man's trail and bring him into court, an attendant discovered him seated in a corner. It soon appeared that his hearing is slightly affected. After some conversation between the lawyers interested in the case, the man was instructed into the jury box. When the judge addressed him it was plain that he could not hear. He was summoned to the bench, and he told the court that he would like to serve on the jury. Judge Bishop thanked him for his desire to be of service to the state and then excused him from further attendance during the present term of the court.

Another curious incident developed in court this morning when it was discovered that Dr. P. J. Meehan had given his testimony in a case that he had not been sworn. He was summoned before Clerk Hurd and an oath was administered that "he had told the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth," etc.

THE COST OF SMOOTH PAVING PER YARD

Smooth paving in Lowell costs the city at the present time $5.69 per square yard, according to figures compiled by Clinton P. Tuttle, chief clerk of the street department, basing his figures on the work done by the street department at the junction of Dutton and Fletcher streets this year.

In Lawrence street, where smooth pavement is now being laid, but where there is still several weeks' work to be done, the cost has been greater—$7.49 per square yard. The Fletcher and Dutton street figure embraces labor, engineering, paving blocks, cement, crushed stone, sand, edgestones, circular stones, castings, bricks, hired teaming and the relocation of poles of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. A total of 2256.45 square yards of pavement were laid on this job.

On the Lawrence street job, the cost includes labor, engineering, paving blocks, cement, crushed stone, sand and teaming. A total of 1536.39 square yards have been laid there.

EBBETS FIELD, Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 6.—The Cleveland Indians with one Brooklyn scalp dangling at their belts went on the warpath again today to tomahawk the National leaguers in the second encounter of the world's series warfare. The tribe, as they are fondly known in Cleveland, believe they have the champions of the National league tied to a stake and declared themselves in for another killing today before the eyes of the Brooklyn home folks. More than 20,000 people came out to see the fray.

Says Speaker "Ruined" Game

"A wind-blown fly was the cause of our downfall yesterday," said Manager Wilbert Robinson of the Brooklynns. "With an even break on luck, my club will show the way to victory. Speaker ruined our ball game with his catches in centerfield. I think I'll tell our fellows to hit the ball over the fence; then let Speaker do his worst. I am inclined to use Grimes in the box today."

Speaker believes that the edge now lies with his American league pennant winners in the series.

Speaker Confident of Victory

"We have looked the Brooklynns over and my men feel they can take the majority of the games," he said. "Brooklyn has a fine ball club, make no mistake, and I have my troubles to and pitchers to beat them in a long series."

The chill of yesterday's defeat and a cold night did not freeze the enthusiasm of the fans who came early to the ball yard. Spectators seeking seats in the unreserved stands began to form in line two hours before sunup and snuggled and shook in the Arctic blast that came out of the north. A groundkeeper, making his rounds at midnight, heard a heavy snore behind the score board in left field. He promptly unearthed four who had hidden in the ball park after yesterday's game, and were taking a night's rest in a nest of newspapers.

The Batteries

The wind had dried out the playing field so that the groundkeepers had to spray it with water to keep down the dust. Those who came early to the game bundled themselves up in great coats and the players wore heavy sweaters.

The batteries for today's game are Bagby and O'Neill for Cleveland and Grimes and Miller for Brooklyn.

First Inning

Cleveland: Jamison went out, Koney to Grimes. Johnston threw out Wambogans at first. Speaker singled past Johnston. Grimes made a pitch out but Speaker did not attempt to go down. Smith struck out, being unable to fathom Grimes' quick-breaking spitball. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Hear Building Commissions

tion, a board of health and license commission serving without pay and the right of the mayor to ask for the resignation of any head of a department or subordinate in city hall whom he considered inefficient.

Dr. John H. Harrington, chairman of the high school building commission, favored the present form of charter, but believed that school department finances should be divorced from other municipal finances. He advocated a commission to have charge of all school property and said that the school department should have its own purchasing agent. He felt that the head of each department should have complete control over that department.

The meeting was called at 7:45 and after the reading of the minutes of the last meeting by the secretary, the report of George F. Noonan, former superintendent of the city scales, for 1919, was received and placed on file. It showed that the total revenue of the department for that year was $105.55.

A detailed report of the cost of paving of Fletcher and Dutton streets and a portion of Lawrence street, submitted by Clinton P. Tuttle, chief clerk of the street department, was also placed on file.

John H. Harrington

John H. Harrington, chairman of the memorial auditorium building commission, was first called. He said, in part:

"For 27 years I suffered all the tortures of pain that go with rheumatism, in my feet, knees, hips, elbows, shoulders, in fact, all over my body. I doctored for it in Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, Michigan and Wisconsin. Went to a sanitarium in Milwaukee, took all kinds of baths, etc., but got very little relief, took every kind of medicine that was recommended to me to relieve rheumatism, but only got a little relief for a while. I was laid up in bed for over a year altogether. One day, while reading a Boston newspaper, I saw a case like mine that Var-ne-sis relieved. I made up my mind to send for it, and thank God I did, for I am now a well man, entirely free from rheumatic pains. Wishing you success with your medicine and hoping you will live a great many years to help others as you helped me. Yours respectfully," have done everything possible under the circumstances. But the whole affair is an excellent illustration of the old saw, 'Delays are dangerous.' The fault lies with the government of that year and the year preceding."

Mr. O'Donnell asked if Mr. Harrington would not amend his last statement by saying "A majority of the government."

"That is what I mean," said Mr. Harrington.

Views on Charter

Asked for ideas as to a change in charter, Mr. Harrington said:

"I give you this as a very humble citizen. It's been my duty as a newspaper publisher to chronicle the doings at city hall for some time, so I ought to know what I want if I've had my eyes open, and I think I have."

"Of course, I don't think that we shall ever have a perfect charter. I'd advise you to draft a new charter. As a man who advocated the present charter, I am willing to confess that this charter is a failure."

"I'd rather have 27 men in the government instead of the present number—five. That would give the young man a chance. Why, you'll die of old age before you'll get in under this charter. The larger governing body would mean more interest in city affairs."

"I believe the men should be elected at large. I'm utterly opposed to ward representation. I should have them serve without pay. 'Another thing that I should like to see would be a secret ballot on the election or removal of officials. I don't favor this oral balloting, as is now the custom.'"

Chairman Casey doubted if the legislature would allow a secret ballot. Mr. Harrington thought it would be worth while to make an attempt at getting it.

"I'd like to have your mayor elected as an executive, not as a member of the council," he said. "He should have veto power. In matters involving the expenditure of money, I think a three-fourths vote of the council should be necessary to override him. On other matters I think a two-thirds vote would be enough."

"I think he should have the appointment of committees. I think you should pay your mayor a decent salary. It's a shame to have a man of the capacity of Mayor Thompson working for the wages of an artisan. 'Your mayor should have the power to remove the head of any department. I think the council should elect the heads of departments.'"

"I do not believe the mayor should be the head of any department, but the father of them all. I believe if you give the mayor the power to remove heads of departments, he'll never have to use it."

"I would have that power of removal extend to every subordinate in the building. Then you'll have a mayor that will be earning his salary. There are occupants of this building who are doing things with impunity. That wouldn't happen if the mayor had the power to remove them. 'The mayor should also have the right to designate who shall not in his absence.'"

"I believe in a definite tenure of office. If there is a little rotation in office once in a while, I don't think there will be any harm done. 'I believe the purchasing agent's office should be abolished. The head of each department should have complete control of his department and be alone responsible for its management. He should buy his own supplies.'"

"I don't believe in civil service as applied to municipal affairs. It was installed to remedy an evil, but in this instance the remedy was worse than the disease. There is one thing that is stronger than the civil service—that is public opinion. I don't know one civil service department that has been benefited by the operation of the civil service laws. Many of them have been injured."

"On the matter of over-running appropriations we thought that the present charter had an iron-clad provision to prevent this, but it failed. I think you should draft something to prevent the city treasurer from paying a bill that exceeds one-twelfth of the annual appropriation. I think you could frame something of that kind that would be effective."

Mr. Casey said that system would do away with the supplementary budget. "A budget by any other name would smell as bad," said Mr. Harrington.

"I believe the license commission should work without pay. I think you can get as good men or the same men as you have now to serve without pay. I'd use them, work them and thank them."

Mr. Harrington also favored a public works department as advocated by City Engineer Kearney. He said he believed that the health department of fields should serve without pay. There should be one salaried official, but as for the rest, he believed there would be plenty of young physicians willing to give their time gratis. He cited

I think you could frame something of that kind that would be effective."

Mr. Casey said that system would do away with the supplementary budget. "A budget by any other name would smell as bad," said Mr. Harrington.

"I believe the license commission should work without pay. I think you can get as good men or the same men as you have now to serve without pay. I'd use them, work them and thank them."

Mr. Harrington also favored a public works department as advocated by City Engineer Kearney. He said he believed that the health department of fields should serve without pay. There should be one salaried official, but as for the rest, he believed there would be plenty of young physicians willing to give their time gratis. He cited the examples of doctors who serve without pay in hospitals.

Mr. Harrington said that he felt that the present charter made the commissioners earn their money. He believed it would be very unreasonable to expect men to come to city hall run a department and legislate as well without salary.

Mr. Farrington asked Mr. Harrington if he had given any thought to the manner of making up the annual budget. Mr. Harrington said that he believed that the heads of the departments should come before the council at the beginning of the year and explain what they intended to do and state how much money they would need.

Mr. Harrington said that it wasn't necessary for the mayor to be a member of special commissions. He is bigger than any commission, he maintained.

"Give the mayor great power, he can't take advantage of it because the council has a check on him," said Mr. Harrington.

"When I spoke about the mayor having the power to remove subordinates, I meant men exclusively, Mr. Chairman. In all my experience in city affairs, I have found the women clerks at city hall like Caesar's wife—above suspicion."

Mr. Doran asked Mr. Harrington if he believed in a supply department. The latter replied in the negative. He believed the head of each department should buy all his supplies.

Clarence H. Blackall

Clarence H. Blackall, architect of the memorial auditorium, was next called. He expressed his appreciation of the way in which the auditorium commission went about its work. It has been very careful of the rights of the public. There has been perfect harmony, he said.

"I am confident that we shall complete the building, furnish it and complete the grounds within our appropriation."

ation and perhaps have something left. The commission scrutinizes every bill and knows just what is to be paid for everything we need."

Mr. Blackall spoke of the difficulties in getting materials but it was his conviction that the building would be ready to be turned over for occupancy by Dec. 1, 1921, if not earlier.

Other Members Heard

Arthur L. Eno, secretary of the commission, said he was in perfect accord with the views of the chairman. He said that he had the records of the commission, available at any time they were wanted.

Walter L. Parker, also a member of the commission, said that the members of the body had worked in harmony from the start. He found that letting out one general contract had worked out perfectly.

As a private citizen, Mr. Parker said that he agreed in the main with Mr. Harrington's views, except that he was opposed to abolishing the purchasing agent's office. If the present form of charter is to be retained, he believed the commissioners and mayor should have much larger salaries.

Clarence H. Nelson, another member of the commission, also said that the commission had worked harmoniously and had surmounted whatever difficulties arose.

He believed that the present charter was somewhat of a failure, but he didn't believe in too large a governing body so that responsibility could not be fixed definitely.

He was inclined to favor the retention of the purchasing agent's department.

Dr. John H. Lambert

Members of the high school building commission were then called forward. Dr. John H. Lambert, chairman, was first heard.

He said that when the commission took over its work it had a set of plans approved by the school committee. In order to meet existing conditions, the plans had to be modified. The changed plans were finally approved, money made available and a contract let at a sum of $1,540,000. Since that time work has been done at a very fair and satisfactory rate of speed. Much excavating had to be done. The foundation has been completed, a considerable portion of the steel work is in place, and a fair proportion of brick work is completed.

Referring to the steel which was bought before the war, Dr. Lambert said that if the commission had to buy steel now, it would have a hard time getting it and it would cost at least $3,000 more.

Practically all the steel bought in 1916 is available for the new building, he said. A small part of the original steel has been sold. A good price was obtained for it.

Ready in 1922

The building will be completed by the latter part of 1921, although it is not expected that it will be ready for occupancy until the fall of 1922. It will contain 3,300,000 cubic feet. The building will not be as fine as originally planned, but it will be serviceable. Nothing has been skimped. The structure

SICK CHILDREN NOT PROPERLY CARED FOR

(Special to The Sun)
STATE HOUSE, Boston, Oct. 6.— Hundreds of sick children, wards of the state, are being improperly cared for, and as a result are "an ever increasing danger to themselves."

This is the declaration of the state board of charity in its report to the legislature, made public today. The condition, the board says, is due to the lack of suitable and adequate hospital facilities.
"The need of provision for hospital care for sick state minor wards long ago reached an acute stage," says the report. "The board has constantly in its care hundreds of children, each of whom is for days, weeks or perhaps months in need of hospital treatment.

Such children are for the time being incapable of placement in homes. They require treatment in some institution until their health is such that they may be sent out into the community.
With a total of 5504 children in this board's care this margin of cases requiring hospital treatment is constant and may be expected to increase each year in exact proportion to the normal increase in the total number of wards.
"The board has no hospital in which to treat these children. Some, falling sick in the foster homes, are cared for at private hospitals at state expense. Most of them are sent to the state infirmary, the only public institution to which the board can send them. Here they are out of place and greatly hamper the infirmary in its more legitimate activities. Thus located, they are an ever-increasing danger to themselves. At the same time they lose the benefit of special care and treatment so frequently imposed by the miserable condition in which they are found by the authorities, and in which they remain at the time of commitment to the board's custody."

JITNEY SERVICE

A hearing on the petition of Ernest T. Vocell for a license to maintain a jitney service between Billerica and Woburn was held by the board of ge-neal of Billerica Monday night, but no definite action was taken by the board. The petitioner said he understands the selection of Burlington as favorable to the project, and he also said that the Woburn city officials will take up the matter at their meeting next Tuesday. He intimated that he would give as good service as the electric cars at a much cheaper rate.
The matter was taken under advisement. In the course of it, the board consented to conduct gasoline filling stations were granted the following:
Dominick DeGeorge, Boston road;
Clarence B. Henshaw, Polard street;
Edgar F. Twombly and G. F. Kenney,
Boston road. Other routine business was transacted.

"Something to Think About," will close its engagement at the Merrimack Square theatre this evening and tomorrow afternoon there will be the usual mid-weekly change of program.
The feature for the second half of the week will be Ethel Clayton in a
"The City Sparrow."

The star is seen as a vaudeville dancer, who, after an accident, which results in the doctor's verdict that she can never become a mother, goes to the country to recuperate. She falls in love with David Muir and accepts his proposal of marriage, but not until the minute does she realize that she can never make him happy as a wife. Rather than reveal the truth she starts back to town, David overakes her and when she confesses the truth they readily come to an understanding with each other.

The story is one of the sweetest ever told and contrasts the smoky city life with the refreshing beauty of Nature's realm. Clyde Fillmore is leading man and others in the cast who acquitted themselves well are Walter Hiers, William Boyd, Rose Cade, Robert Brown, Lilian Leighton, Bartine Barrett and Sylvia Ashton.

Other features for the week-end will include an exceptionally funny Christie comedy, "Seven Bad Dates," the International News, Will Rogers' funny illustrated digest and a Burton Holmes' travel picture. Remember:
"Always a good show" at the Merrimack Square.

part of responsibility in "putting the piece over" and they receive the support of a competent cast. Max Drie-coll and Miss Hill are especially amusing in their part. The piece is well staged, and judging from the many favorable comments, is accomplishing its purpose to a nicety.

THE STRAND
Jack London's name is synonymous with extraordinary sea romances and stories of the "blue-man" variety, so that it's not unusual to find "The Mutiny of the Elsinore," which is being shown for the last time today at The strand one of those big, vigorous, gripping stories of the sea. It's a big story and is playing to big audiences.
Anne Cornwall, one of the new stars of the silver screen in "The Girl in the Rain" is the other offering and it's a good companion picture to the former.

RIALTO THEATRE:
"What Women Love," with Annette Kellerman appearing in the principal role, is drawing capacity audiences to the Rialto theatre. It will continue through the entire week. The picture is an absorbing story of an innocent athletic country girl, who has to grapple with a brute of a man 2 1/2 feet under the sea surface after making a dive of 150 feet from the mast of a schooner. "The Sheriff of Muscatine" and the ninth episode of the "Third Eye" will be seen for the last time today. A Hank Mann comedy, the Fox news and an educational film serve to complete the well balanced bill.

B. F. KELLIS THEATRE:
The sweetest of little love comedies is "Morning Glory," which is on the bill at the B. F. Kellis theatre, and the one lady on the vaudeville stage today whose middle name is Personality is Patricia. Take these two little tips for they are really very honest. Noel Travers and Rene Douglas appear in "Morning Glory," together with Louis
Thiele, a splendid character actor.

Patricia sings, plays a violin and looks the part every minute of the time. Sounds easy, but very few indeed can put across the footlights so much in 15 minutes as she can. "The Intruder" is a catchy comedy, and Largeny & Saxe top over a vaudeville version of musical comedy. Other acts are: Lee & Lawrence, the Hickfords and the Musical Hunters.

BISHOP BEAVEN DEAD

Springfield Prelate Died Suddenly at Age of 71—Noted Orator

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 6.—Right Rev. Thomas D. Beaven, D.D., aged 71 years, bishop of the Springfield Roman Catholic diocese, died suddenly yesterday afternoon of heart disease at the episcopal residence on Elliot street, this city. Until the last few months he had enjoyed perfect health. The funeral will be held at St. Michael's cathedral Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

Holy Cross Graduate
 Rt. Rev. Thomas D. Beaven, D.D., was born in Springfield in 1849, son of Thomas Beaven, for many years an employee of the Albany railroad in Springfield.

Graduating with highest honors at the age of 21 at Holy Cross college, Worcester, he was expected by his parents to become a lawyer, and they were somewhat surprised when he chose the priesthood, though his brother James had been ordained and a brother of the mother of the two boys, Rev. Daniel Beaven, was a priest in Providence many years, and died there more than 30 years ago.

Bishop Beaven, after graduating at Holy Cross, held a professorship for two years at the College of Loyola, Baltimore, then completed his studies at the College of Montreal and was ordained to the priesthood in 1873, becoming assistant rector of a church in Spencer, in the diocese of which he was later to become the second bishop.

From 1879 till 1889 he was pastor of the Spencer church. He dedicated in 1887 a fine church edifice which he had been engaged in building during the five preceding years.

He became rector of the Church of the Holy Rosary, Holyoke, in 1889, remaining there till 1902, when he was appointed bishop of the Springfield diocese.

In 1909 Bishop Beaven, in a suit in regard to land which he had acquired for a church at Easthampton, was supported by the full bench of the supreme court in his contention that the late Judge Dana erred in ruling that Catholics could not sit on a jury in a case involving title to church property in their own diocese.

On January 5, 1916, Bishop Beaven offered in the state senate of Massachusetts the first prayer ever made there by a Catholic clergyman. During that year and the next he was active in a movement to raise $100,000 by contributions from priests for a new building for Holy Cross college.

In 1912 the Bishop's 20th anniversary was celebrated with solemn ceremonies and a large attendance at St. Michael's cathedral in Springfield. Another notable ceremonial in which he was the commanding figure was

BABY NAMED LYDIA E.

Because Her Mother Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I could not write all my thanks for your blessed medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in a very bad condition and had lost two babies. One of my good friends told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and after I had taken eight or ten bottles I felt like a different woman. I kept on taking it until my baby girl was born last month and we have had her christened Lydia Elizabeth. I wish you to publish my letter to benefit other women who are suffering as I was."—Mrs. KATHLEEN KUNZACKER, 1080 Manhattan Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Women who suffer from any feminine ailment should not lose hope until they have tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The many convincing testimonials constantly published in the newspapers ought to be proof enough for women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to the sex that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the medicine they need.

the celebration at that cathedral in 1916, of its 50th anniversary.

Three years ago his silver jubilee was celebrated at the cathedral and during the ceremony it was announced that the pope had made the bishop assistant at the pontifical throne.

On the occasion of his silver jubilee he was given a large sum of money by clergymen of the parish, with which he built the Home for Aged Men built there in memory of Bishop Beaven's father. The Home for Orphan Girls and Aged Women was built at Ingleside early in Bishop Beaven's administration. The Renwick estate was bought and Greylock Rest, a private sanitarium, has been established there.

The activities of Bishop Beaven have not been confined to this immediate vicinity, and among some of the important institutions which his influence has established and fostered may be mentioned St. Vincent's hospital in Worcester, the House of Providence hospital at Holyoke, the Farren Memorial hospital at Montague City, near Greenfield, and St. Joseph's academy, Chicopee.

The sisters of the Good Shepherd were brought through Bishop Beaven's influence. The Mercy hospital was built and opened under his administration. St. Luke's home was bought and a maternity hospital established. The Convent Home for the Sisters of St. Joseph was built under Bishop Beaven's administration and the Mt. Marie Summer Home for the Sisters.

The year of his consecration as bishop he secured the Brightside property and built the orphanage for boys and for infant children and a home for aged men.

During his administration of the diocese many church edifices have been erected in different cities and towns, sites have been purchased for new structures. At present there are now more than 50 schools, many hospitals and homes and 150 churches.

Bishop Beaven had officiated at the dedication of three new Catholic churches in his diocese during the last three weeks. The Springfield diocese embraces Worcester county and all counties in the state west of it.

Bishop Beaven ranked among the foremost pulpits orators of the Catholic church in New England. His amiability and refinement of manner, his quiet yet convincing power of speech and his earnest advocacy of all conservative measures made him honored and respected by all classes, and these qualities gained him a reputation possessed by but few clergymen of any denomination. Bishop Beaven was one of the most enthusiastic of the Holy Cross graduates and always had been a regular attendant at the commencement exercises and at the annual meetings.

O.M.I. CADETS' FIELD DAY
 Further plans for the field day of the O.M.I. cadets were made at a special meeting of the officers of the cadets in their armory in East Merrimack street last night. The field day will be held on the 13th of October in Lynn, Mass., and a football game between the officers and the regular cadet team will be staged besides races, a sham battle and other sports. A prize drill will be held in the afternoon. The date for the cadet anniversary was set for November 15 and the date for the annual officers' ball was set for January 1. The O.M.I. cadet football team will open its 1920 season this coming Sunday afternoon on the North common when it will play the C.Y.M.L. The game is expected to provide considerable excitement.

LADIES' AUXILIARY

Of the Local Post of the American Legion Starts Active Membership Campaign

The membership of the ladies' auxiliary of the local post of the American Legion is already 200 and with a membership campaign committee recently appointed. It is expected that the number will soon increase to the thousands. The first meeting of the auxiliary since it was formally organized and the officers were elected, was held Monday evening in legion headquarters in Dutton street.

The business meeting, the appointment of a membership committee, naming of a financial committee and an address by a representative of the Malden post of the American Legion, who urged the members of the auxiliary to co-operate with the regular legion members.

Mrs. Hewitt was appointed chairman of the membership committee and the following were appointed as assistants: Mrs. Robbins, Mrs. Heady, Mrs. Patrick, Mrs. Hurley, Mrs. Kearns, Miss Patrick, Mrs. Brick, Mrs. Conners.

These women will select others as members of their individual committees and a thorough canvass of the city for new members will be made. Mrs. Charles Molloy was elected chairman of the financial committee and as her assistants were elected: Miss Catherine Curtin, Mrs. Donovan, Miss Grace Mollahan, previously elected secretary to the organization, was appointed financial secretary. It was voted to hold a meeting every Monday night until further notice.

Arthur Moran, vice commander of the local post of the legion, was present at the meeting. Mr. Moran was very active in the organization of the auxiliary, but from now on, since the officers have been chosen, the business and management will be in the hands of the women.

MARK MUSKRAT IN TROUBLE

"Tap, tap, tap," banged Scribble Scratch on his desk with his measuring stick.

"Zoom, squeak, zoom," played Nick on his mouth-organ.

"Left, right, left," marched Naney, leading the pupils of Meadow Grove school up one aisle and down the other while the visitors looked on with approval.

"Fine!" said Mr. Granddaddy Owl.

"Wonderful!" declared old Judge Crow.

"Remarkable!" cried Dr. Mink.

"Charming!" nodded Prof. Hare.

"It isn't that at all. Honest!"

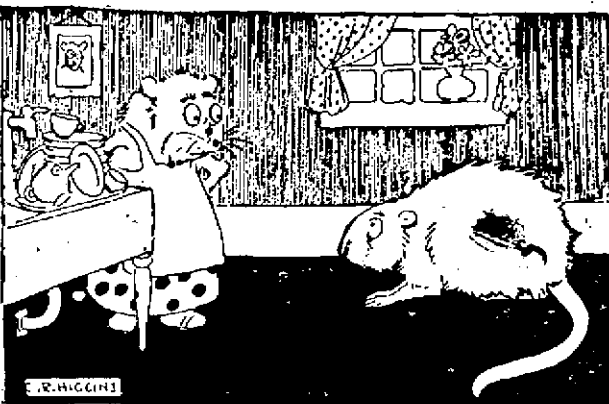

"Then it must be one of those blubber balloons! You blow them up faster than your pa can make the money to buy them."

"No, ma, it isn't that either," denied Markie.

Suddenly Mrs. Muskrat gave a shriek. "Markie, it can't be that you intend buying chewing gum!"

Markie looked as though he'd robbed a bank then, for his mother had guessed exactly right.

"Now, young man, you march right off to school," she scolded, "and don't

MRS. MUSKRAT STOPPED DOING THE BREAKFAST DISHES AND LOOKED AT HIM IN STERN AMAZEMENT.

"Very nice, indeed!" approved Mr. U. U. Chuck.

So they marched and sang about the mosquito and the fish, and everything went very nicely, nobody dreaming what a dreadful time Markie Muskrat was having.

Here's the way it was:

That morning Markie said to his mother, "Say, ma, please give me a cent."

And Mrs. Muskrat had stopped doing the breakfast dishes and looked at him in stern amazement. "Why Marcus Aurelius Muskrat! What do you want a cent for?"

Markie hung his head guiltily.

"I know," she went on accusingly. "You want to buy another of those raimon lolly-pops, and they're simply ruining your stomach."

"Oh, no, Mamma!" Markie declared.

SENSATION CAUSED BY ASQUITH'S LETTER

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Former Premier Asquith's letter to the London Times declaring that he was not alarmed by the speech of an Irish republic and advocating dominion home rule in the widest sense, has created somewhat of a sensation in political circles and is considered significant in view of Viscount Grey's important pronouncement and the recent letter from Lord Morley, which while making no actual contribution in the way of a solution of the Irish difficulty, advocated taking "larger views" in Irish matters.

Among the downright opponents of the concessions to Ireland, Mr. Asquith's letter is denounced as a "mere sop to Sinn Fein violence" and his advocacy of Ireland possessing its own army and a vote in treaty-making is seized upon as matters to which it would be impossible for the British public to consent.

The newspapers, commenting on the Asquith declaration, take up what they consider the weak spot. In that it fails to suggest any method of dealing with the Ulster question and show how the north and south can be brought together.

Taking this point, the Westminster Gazette, a moderate Liberal organ, expresses the opinion that ultimately the only solution will be that of Viscount Grey, to throw the whole responsibility of finding a solution on the Irish people themselves.

Mr. Lloyd George will make a political announcement at Llanelli, Wales, Friday, and it is expected that he will deal with Mr. Asquith's proposals. He is credited with holding the belief that British opinion could not expect him to go as far as Mr. Asquith suggests, but, according to the Standard's Dublin correspondent, he is expected to make another peace offer to the Sinn Fein.

MORE BALL PLAYERS TO BE INDICTED

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Evidence which officials in the state's attorney's office said would result in the indictment of several National League baseball players, was given the grand jury yesterday by players and club officials who testified in the inquiry into the baseball scandal.

There will be no indictment for 10 days or more, however, for the jury adjourned after the session, subject to call, and is not expected to reconvene until after the world's series. Adjournment was taken because it was found that several witnesses scheduled to testify are attending the series games.

John McGraw, Charles Stoneham, Benny Kauff, Larry Doyle, Fred Toney, Trainer Mackall of the Giants, Hughie Jennings, Jean Dubois and "Kid" Gleason were the witnesses.

The New York testimony centered about activities of Heinie Zimmerman and Hal Chase in connection with alleged game "throwing" and tending. McGraw said, to clear Kauff and Toney of participation in any crooked work.

Kauff and Toney told the jury of offers made them by Zimmerman to "throw" games. Each said he refused the offer, and reported it to McGraw and Stoneham. The latter two confirmed the testimony of the players.

Fat That Shows Soon Disappears

Prominent fat that comes and stays where it is not needed is a burden, a hindrance to activity, and a curb upon pleasure. Many forms of exercise to reduce weight have been advanced, such as dieting, hard work, excessive exercise, etc., all of which are either unpleasant or dangerous.

The latest, more modern and pleasant way to take off burdensome fat is to take, after each meal and at bedtime, a Marmola Tablet. These little tablets are as effective and harmless as the famous Marmola Prescription from which they take their name.

To get rid of fat at the rate of two, three or four pounds a week, simply take one of these little tablets after each meal and at bedtime until you have reduced your weight to where you want it. No wrinkles or flabbiness will remain to show where the fat came off.

They are for sale by all druggists at $1 for a good size box. If you prefer to have them come to you direct by mail, prepaid, in plain sealed cover, send amount to the Marmola Co., 27 Carleton Building, Detroit, Mich., and bid goodbye to dieting, exercise and fat. Be yourself, slim, trim and attractive.

THE FARE PROBLEM

It would seem to be clear that, if the present street car fare problem in the Lowell district of the Eastern Massachusetts company is to be satisfactorily solved, it must be as a result of the consideration of the subject from a viewpoint that will include the widest possible scope for suggestion and discussion.

It is admitted that the present system is not satisfactory. It seems quite plain that it works hardship to a number of people. The public trustees on their part are not by any means certain that the present rate will produce the revenues that they are required to raise by law, and there is little doubt that they would welcome any change that would be more satisfactory to the riding public and at the same time produce the necessary income.

Thus far but little seems to have been said about the adoption of a straight zone system. It has worked well in other cities. Would it not be well to consider its applicability here? It would seem to be a maximum of justice and common-sense that street car patrons should pay for what they receive in the way of transportation. There may be reasons why a man riding three miles should be charged the same fare as a man who rides four. If there are, it would seem fair that they should be produced.

The public trustees are aware, or can easily ascertain, exactly what it costs to carry a passenger a given distance in a given section of territory. With a fare based on this, each passenger would pay for his own ride and not for that of someone else.

It is admitted that it would not be feasible to introduce small zones into the heart of the city. Why, however, could not a zone of reasonable circumference, with its center in Merrimack square, be established with a five-cent fare, and the use of transfers, and a fare rate of two cents, for instance, be charged for passage through each additional zone, the width of the zone to be determined by the cost of carrying a passenger. This system is now in successful operation in other cities.

ULTIMATUM FOR IRELAND

England is to try a more rigorous method of crushing Ireland than is afforded by bullet, bayonet, bomb and petrol as used in the so-called reprisals of the barbarous "Black and Tans." Disarmament from end to end of the land, and then submission or slaughter seems to be the new policy outlined. If Ulster is included in the disarmament process, it may help to allay the fury of the Carsonites in their cry for civil war and their leadership in Black and Tan methods.

The Irish question, as we have repeatedly said, cannot be settled by the partition policy. Neither can it ever be settled while Carson exercises an absolute dictatorship in Irish affairs. Already the country is on the verge of ruin and anarchy, all because of Carsonism. It was Carson who a short time ago suggested a policy of extermination to be enforced against the Sinn Féin element. It was the followers of Carson who prevented the peaceful settlement provided on the home rule act from taking effect, and thereby stirred up all the trouble that has since swept the island. It was the Carsonites who defeated the aims of the so-called constitutional convention because they would agree to nothing except a motion to adjourn.

The first step towards a settlement of the Irish question must be to set aside the dictatorship of Carson over the British premier, over the house of lords and the whole British government.

There can be no settlement except one that will deal with Ireland as a unit and grant full self-government; but this can never be done while Carson dominates the king, lords and commons of England and while his approved Black and Tan butchers under the direction of General McCready, head of the Carson volunteers, treat the Irish people worse than the Germans treated the Belgians and as bad in many cases as the Turks are accused of treating the Armenians.

THE STATE CAMPAIGN

It is expected that the state campaign will be lived up to a bit from now until election day. The democrats have completed their ticket by naming Marcus A. Coolidge for lieutenant-governor and Edward E. Ginsburg of Brookline for secretary of state. Both are strong men and should be elected. Senator Walsh, the candidate for governor, is showing up the financial crisis precipitated through republican mismanagement. Had the republican authorities done their duty, they would not have permitted Ponzi to rob the people to the tune of $7,000,000. Their neglect in this respect has been responsible for the trouble that has since closed half a dozen banks.

The state treasurer used his office for graft and the man appointed to succeed him has been unable to take proper care of the state funds. Neither is competent to fill the office of treasurer. On the democratic ticket is Mr. O'Hearn, a bank official who has not been involved in any of the financial troubles following the Ponzi operations. He will make an excellent treasurer if elected.

Republicans are disgusted with the administration of state affairs. Last year the city of Boston was wrecked for lack of police protection; this year the people were robbed of millions by gamblers who were allowed to conduct their business openly without police interference. One leading the people to assume it was legitimate. If returned to power, something still worse may result from their mismanagement next year.

HAYWOOD AGAIN

New England papers on October 1 carried dispatches summarizing a speech made by "Big Bill" Haywood in Boston in the same old strain as in former years, except that he is now pleading for a soviet government in this country same as in Russia. It appears that Haywood must serve his sentence for evading the draft, but when he gets out he will resume his work as professional agitator for a soviet government in this country.

He styles himself as a "convict" and rather expects sympathy on that head when pleading with the radicals. The audience which he addressed in International hall in Roxbury contributed $200 for the I.W.W. members still retained in prison for various offences, chiefly opposition to the draft.

While professional agitators like Haywood are allowed to go about this country preaching sedition and anarchy, it is useless to attempt to suppress radicalism. It can't be done. If it be necessary to maintain a penal colony for the "Reds," we should have it. Such men as Haywood should be either deported or locked up. His business is that of propagating the spread of revolutionary ideas or "Red" radicalism in this country and he is not hiding it. If that is a legitimate and remunerative calling unmolested by the government, it will hold out great inducement to European agitators to come here and preach the gospel of Trotsky and Lenin in favor of Russian sovietism.

It is time that some legal remedy were provided to deny the freedom of speech to men who preach the overthrow of our constitution.

THE WOMEN'S VOTE

The matter of registration is one of extreme importance for all those who are otherwise eligible to vote.

The women have been enfranchised under the 19th amendment, but they might as well not be invested with this privilege if they do not exercise the right to vote.

In order to do this, they must register with the election commissioners at city hall or at any of the special sessions held by the board at other points in the city.

The women of the republican wards are registering in full force, but those of the other wards seem to be indifferent. They do not appear to realize that for the first time in their lives, they are to be privileged to share in the selection of federal officials, president, vice-president, congressmen, senators and others. Thus they exercise a part of the sovereignty vested in the people. It should interest most women sufficiently to induce them to get registered so that they can vote on November 2.

The women throughout the country are preparing to show their strength in the coming election. Why not those of Massachusetts and why should those of Lowell lag behind?

A GENEROUS OFFER

In offering the American Legion a gift of $5,000,000 for a memorial building at Washington, the Knights of Columbus have adopted a graceful means of devoting the money placed in their hands to the purposes for which it was subscribed.

The order had quite a large fund on hand when the armistice was declared, to be used for the relief of the soldiers. Much of it was used, but what remains is being used for the benefit of the soldiers through educational courses and otherwise. The gift of a great memorial building in the nation's capital is one that will remain not only as a memorial to the soldiers, but as an enduring evidence of the patriotism and the devotion of the Knights to the men who offered their lives for the flag when the rights of the nation were invaded and the freedom of the world was imperiled.

SCHIFF'S REQUESTS

The numerous magnificent bequests to charity amounting in all to $1,350,000 left by Jacob H. Schiff proves him to have been a real philanthropist. Although the larger amounts go to charities conducted by the Jewish people, yet he has included many of a public character to sustain public libraries, hospitals and institutions for the benefit of children of all classes. These donations to public charities should give the name of Mr. Schiff a high place among the philanthropists of this country.

It is very desirable that people should be protected against ungenerous investments, but it is also wise to remember that if some of the drastic laws that are being proposed to deal with the matter had been in force when Professor Bell first began to try to convince the world that it was possible to talk over a wire, we should very likely have no telephone.

The members of the Middlesex Women's club probably do not intend to undertake to reform the whole world all at once, but their list of activities for the winter would seem to indicate that they propose to get in readiness to undertake the task if the necessity should arise.

Yes, the women voters of Lowell have a right to resent the apportionment on their common sense cast by the G.O.P. leaders, who assert that 15 per cent of them are going to vote the republican ticket this fall.

If we are to believe current revelations, a lot of people who shouted their heads off at baseball contexts were really applauding the success of the efforts of some players to lose the game.

John Golden says that the textile workers do not believe in socialism. Nor does anyone else. We will, however, be glad to be entitled to remain outside bedlam.

The foremost debatable question of the hour—shall the "heavies" come out of the moth chest?

SEEN AND HEARD

"It's a serious world that greets the world's series."

It is indeed a pathetic cellar that has been able to withstand 16 months of drought.

If winter fingers in the lap of spring, summer is a hussy, too, and frequently stamps autumn.

Make your own comment on this one: A Vancouver man sued for divorce because his wife didn't speak to him for a year.

It must be tough on the fellow with poetry in his soul to know that writing verses to a girl is considered very silly.

The Paper Napkin

The Boston Globe suggests that, in view of the paper shortage, paper napkins might be eliminated. And that's a gem of a suggestion, too. The paper napkin is a miserable subterfuge, an abomination, in fact. We have yet to use one that we didn't penetrate either with nose or finger.

Pays to Advertise

Said the little yellow duck to the little red hen: "I haven't sold an egg since I don't know when. Business for me is a losing game, but you seem prosperous just the same." Said the little red hen to the little yellow duck: "Business isn't always a matter of luck. You work as hard and produce a line of eggs that are good as mine. Your merchandising methods you need to revise. If you want to be successful you must advertise. Don't wait for buyers for you, but tell your story the way I do."

The Deluge

The world again will be submerged in deluge. Life again will be destroyed. And a new Noah will start things going again. This comes straight from Karl Brandler-Bracht, a German author of the book entitled "The Deluge: It Will Come Again." However, you need be in no hurry about building an ark, nor giving away your last summer's car. It will not happen until the year 3290. It will take about that long for Germany to pay her war debts.

Henpecking Women

We know a man who is so henpecked that he never says what he thinks unless he happens to say it without thinking.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A most ingenious Paradox.—Boston Globe.
More ingenious than that the greatest henpecking woman in the world would be astonished beyond measure if anyone were even to intimate that she wasn't the gentlest, sweetest, most considerate soul that ever went unpecked of wings.—Berkshire Eagle.
And we rise to remark that while a henpecking woman lays for her husband, a henpecked husband has nothing to grow over.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

I happened to be passing the Green school in Merrimack street Monday evening shortly before 7 o'clock and witnessed a sight that I believe is rarely duplicated in other cities of "it's" size. The sidewalk in front of the school was black with young men and women eager to begin their fall work in evening school and the crowd extended even up to the very steps leading into the building. Those who made up the gathering seemed almost impatient because the doors had not yet opened, so eager were they to begin their work. I suppose a large number of them had only a few hours before in the left mill and factories and shops, but the day's work evidently had not fatigued them. And above them waved a weather-beaten Old Glory, seeming to signify that the young people below were made of the stuff that has put the United States in her present position.

My attention has been called to an article in a recent issue of the Boston Transcript in which considerable space is devoted to the idea and achievements of a Lowell man, John A. Stevens, the well known engineer, on the electrification of the eastern part of the United States. This has already been referred to in The Sun. Mr. Stevens' idea in a nutshell is the erection of a super-power central station where power will be generated for the entire surrounding country, effecting in this way a tremendous saving in the amount of cost necessary. The ideas and the design for a proposed super-power station are set forth exhaustively in explanation and illustration by Mr. Stevens in recent articles in Power, one of the leading engineering papers of this country. Mr. Stevens shows the proposed stations and the economies to be expected therefrom in articles which are full of technical detail, but also contain other material concerning the scheme which will interest the layman. He says incidentally that "this development was conceived in 1917, but in 1918 it died in the hands of the war." The ideas and suggestions of many have been interwoven into the design, showing the art and possibilities up to the present time.

I remember when I was a youngster one of my chief delights was devising new forms of transportation for myself and companions. My "stable" consisted of everything from the ordinary express wagon that used to hang up outside the hardware store to a specially built automobile "racer" that was propelled by a "mehran" in the rear, but in every other respect had all the appointments of a regular motor car from fender in front to brakes alongside the driver's seat. I can remember watching the man who made it sweat night after night as he put the various parts together. But I certainly had my full quota of pleasure from it. Saturday afternoon, however, I saw a brand new kind of vehicle on Gorham street. It was constructed on the foundation of a very ordinary board and four ordinary wheels but its motive power was none other than a large, solid piece of canvas, rising up from it like the sail of a yacht. There was a fairly good breeze at the time and it was surprising how fast the "boat" sped down the street with a couple of joyful youngsters piloting it as though it were Lipton's own Shamrock.

MME. SCHUMANN HEINK

Program to Be Given by Mme. Schumann Heink at the Strand Theatre Praised by Concert Managers

The program, which Mme. Schumann Heink will give at the Strand theatre on Friday evening has been received by the managers of the concert. It is a magnificent program and gives the diva every opportunity to show her superb talents.

Mme. Schumann Heink will open her program with two familiar arias and Bach's wonderful work, "My Heart Ever Faithful." In addition she will give two groups of songs. The first group has five of Frank La Forge's best songs and includes the popular "Flanders Requiem" which answers the query raised by the poem, "In Flanders Fields." La Forge was at one time Mme. Schumann Heink's accompanist. In more recent years he has given himself almost entirely to composition with marked success.

But one of the eleven songs will be in Italian. The others are in English. The second group has many old favorites including Bizet's "Agnus Dei" and Lieberow's "Indian Love Song." George Morgan, the assisting baritone, has a generous part in the program but not because Mme. Schumann Heink wishes to spare herself. In addition to the numbers announced for her many requests have been received that she give some of her best liked numbers such as "The Cry of Rachel," "Danny Boy," "The Rosary" and the aria from "Cassanova and Doll." "My Heart At Thy Sweet Voice." These will be given as extras.

At Symphony hall on Sunday last Mme. Schumann Heink sang as well as she ever did. The conservative critic of the "Herald" had this to say Monday: "That Mme. Schumann Heink has lost none of her extraordinary hold on the affection and admiration of the Boston musical public was vividly proved by the throng that crowded the hall in every part and filled the platform and all standing room. Nor was the keen interest in her singing and the spontaneous enthusiasm aroused by it, which have followed her for many years, one whit lacking. Comment on her voice, her engaging sincerity, her fervor, the many elements of the striking personality which have made her popular, would be superfluous. They were all present in the past and were greeted by the applause, hearty laughter, and the moisture of tears."

Mr. Morgan's fine baritone voice and the acceptable way he used it won warm approval.

Her Lowell program:

(a) Aria (Rinaldo) La Cilla Chio Fl. (b) My Heart Ever Faithful (Bach) (c) Aria "Ah Mon Dieu" (Le Prophete) (d) "The Cry of Rachel" (Lieberow) (e) "Indian Love Song" (Meyerbeer) (f) "Agnus Dei" (Bizet)

LICENSE COMMISSION

Report Privileges of License Violated—Coffee House Proprietor Reprimanded for Employing Dancers

It has come to the attention of the license commissioners that owners of trucks and other vehicles for the conveyance of goods or rubbish within the city or between this city and other cities have been violating the privileges of their licenses and in other cases that some are carrying on business without a license. Investigation of these allegations will be carried out within the next week. The commissioners mentioned the fact that certain dealers were of the opinion that licenses for transporting goods from this city to any other city were not necessary. Chapter 6, section 2 of the city ordinance of 1919, requires that such persons who employ or use any wagon, cart, truck, sleigh, sled or other vehicle which may be necessary for the conveyance from place to place of any rubbish, goods, wares, furniture or merchandise must be properly licensed. Other business of the meeting included a reprimand to a certain coffee house proprietor, who was charged with employing women dancers in his establishment. He was warned that if such practice did not stop his license would be revoked.

Hear Building Commission

tural work has been supervised by competent engineers. There has been great co-operation between the architect and the contractor, Dr. Lambert said.

Mr. Casey asked how much money will be available after the general contractor is paid. Dr. Lambert said that exact figures could be obtained from the city auditor's office. He said that about $150,000 or $200,000 had been spent by the city government for land and buildings before the commission took charge.

"Do you anticipate being able to complete the building within your appropriation?" asked Mr. Casey.

"Yes, sir, we do anticipate and shall do that," said Dr. Lambert.

Mr. Casey asked Dr. Lambert to explain an expenditure of $1648.75 to William B. Itner in 1919.

Chairman Lambert said that Mr. Itner was employed by the commission as a consulting architect, so that the members might assure that it had cut out every unnecessary expenditure. Mr. Itner is considered the most expert schoolhouse architect in the country, he said.

Mr. Casey asked Dr. Lambert why Mayor Thompson was refused a copy of Mr. Itner's recommendations.

"I prefer not to answer," said Dr. Lambert.

"Is there a copy of the recommendations available?"

tions available?"

Continued

"I presume so," said Dr. Lambert.

"Then, unless I am over-ruled by the majority of the members of the charter commission," said Mr. Casey, "I shall instruct our secretary to request your commission to send us a copy of the recommendations," continued Mr. Casey.

"Personally, I have no objection to that," said Dr. Lambert. "However, I should like to state at this time that the mayor was present at a meeting of the school committee and high school commission when the architect's report was read aloud."

"Don't you think the requirement of your commission, that any contractor who submitted a bid had to accompany it with a certified check of from $5,000 to $50,000 had something to do with the small number of bids you received?" queried Mr. Casey.

"Possibly," replied Dr. Lambert, "but I doubt that it had much to do with it. That would not bother large firms a great deal."

"But it might bother Lowell contractors," said Mr. Casey.

"It might," admitted Dr. Lambert.

Mr. Casey asked if the bid received by the commission was accompanied by a check of 5 per cent of the amount of the bid.

"It was not," replied Dr. Lambert. "We did not accept that bid. The bid we finally accepted was accompanied by a check."

"We took the advice of the law department in the matter," continued Dr. Lambert. "We think that the city is well protected by our requiring personal bonds of the general and sub-contractors."

"Why is it," asked Chairman Casey, "that the commission has approved a bill for $5,131.94 for the redrawing of plans, submitted by Kimball Co., though the city solicitor has said in an opinion that it would be better for this matter to go to litigation, the bill being now held up for payment by the city auditor?"

Mr. Lambert replied that the commission felt in view of all the facts that the bill was a just one and should be paid.

Dr. Lambert said that there is a bill of $16,000 for architect's services in revising plans still pending.

The new high school will take care of the city's children for about 20 years, Dr. Lambert said. He gave a detailed description of what the building is to contain.

In response to a question from Mr. O'Donnell, Dr. Lambert said that the power and lighting plant, originally planned, has been cut out with the approval of the school committee.

The total housing capacity of the old and new buildings, he said, will be 3000. The contract let by the commission provides for the removal of 15 furnaces from the old high school building, the complete wiring of the old building and the new, and the installation of a new heating plant.

Believes in Present Charter

Dr. Lambert, as a private citizen, said that he was an emphatic believer in the present form of charter.

"The small number of men in the council and school committee," he said, "will do better work than a large body of men. The present charter places responsibility on a very few men." He did not believe in the secret ballot, he said.

The small number of men in a governing body makes a short ballot and prevents confusion, he maintained. The voters are able to know more about the men for whom they are voting when there are only a few candidates, he said.

He also favored a school committee of few members. The school department finances should be divorced from other finances. He believed in a separate school tax so that the committee would have to live within its appropriation.

He believed that school buildings should be controlled by an appointive commission. He thought also that the department should have its own purchasing agent. He did not make that statement as any reflection on the present purchasing agent.

He did not believe that any one man should handle the city's finances. The mayor might have the right to bring in the annual budget and might have some veto power, he thought.

Dr. Lambert said that the council should serve without pay. The head of a department should have complete control over that department, he thought.

Other Commissioners Appear

Dr. Joseph E. Lamoureux, another member of the high school commission, had nothing to add to Dr. Lambert's remarks. Personally, he said, he favored the present charter.

He would give the mayor the veto power.

John J. Mullaney, also a member of the commission, said he could not see how the new high school could be erected in 1915 within the appropriation then available.

Relative to the refusal of the commission to submit to Mr. Itner's report to the mayor, Mr. Mullaney said that the bill creating the commission provided that it should report from time to time to the city council and for that reason he did not see why the mayor should be more than other members of the council should be given a copy of the recommendations.

The chairman asked if he did not believe the recommendations should have been sent to the mayor purely out of courtesy.

Mr. Mullaney said that he had no intention of showing any disrespect to the mayor. In fact, the mayor was invited to be present at a meeting of the commission when Mr. Itner was present.

The architect's fee will reach about $70,000, Mr. Mullaney said, but he is not receiving anywhere near the amount that he and other architects receive for similar work.

Mr. Mullaney said he believed in two chambers in the government and an executive with veto power. The present charter gives three men too much power. He believed the mayor should have the appointing of department heads subject to confirmation.

John A. Stevens, also a member of the commission, said that Mr. Itner was considered an international expert in his line. At his personal expense, Mr. Stevens said, he inspected a great many of the leading high schools in the eastern part of the country, after becoming a member of the high school commission.

Timothy F. O'Sullivan, secretary of the commission, said that Mr. Itner was highly recommended. Originally it had been the plan of the commission to restrict bids to Lowell contractors, he said, but later bids were thrown open to everybody. Much of the interior equipment of the school has already arrived and been paid for, Mr. O'Sullivan said.

Mr. Farrington asked if it were not unusual to pay for equipment two years before it is to be used; especially under a contract.

Mr. O'Sullivan said that the commission had believed that a saving might be effected in that way.

"A saving for whom?" asked Mr. Farrington.

"For the contractor," replied Mr. O'Sullivan.

"But it wouldn't make any difference to the city," said Mr. Farrington.

"No," said Mr. O'Sullivan.

Henry L. Bourke

Henry L. Bourke, architect, gave a detailed description of the new building. It will contain approximately 100 rooms, he said.

The old and new buildings will be connected by a corridor. The revised plans call for a flat roof on the new building. Many eliminations have had to be made to erect the building within the available funds, he said.

Work on the building has progressed very well under present conditions, Mr. Bourke said. He had every reason to believe that the building will be completed within the available appropriations. The city has $130,000 worth of protection if the contractors should fail to carry out their agreements.

Mr. Casey said that he questioned whether all Lowell contractors had a fair chance to bid on the building. Mr. Bourke was excused and it was voted that members of the school committee, the superintendent of schools and the business agent of the school department be requested to attend the next session of the commission on Friday evening.

13 Eggs A Day From 17 Young Pullets

Mrs. Niles Starts 6-months Old Pullet Laying. Tells How.

"Early in November I bought a package of 17 young pullets. In the first 30 days they laid 133 lovely eggs. All through December I got 11 to 13 eggs a day."

Mrs. Niles found how to start young pullets laying and keep them laying all winter. The same method helps hens through the moult and starts them laying again. You can test this at our risk.

Give your hens Don Sung and watch results for one month. If you don't find that it pays for itself and pays you a good profit besides, simply tell us and your money will be cheerfully refunded.

Don Sung (Chinese for egg-laying) is a scientific tonic and conditioner. It is given in the form of a delicious meal and makes her stronger and more active. It tones up the egg-laying organs and gets the eggs, no matter how cold or wet the weather.

Don Sung can be obtained promptly from your druggist or poultry supply dealer, or $1.00 (includes tax) for a package by mail prepaid. Bureau of Poultry, 214 Columbia Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

THE DEATH PENALTY

Abolition of Death Penalty for Murder Sought in Petition to be Widely Circulated

(Special to The Sun)
STATE HOUSE, Boston, Oct. 6.—Abolition of the death penalty for murder is to be sought through an initiative petition, soon to be set in circulation throughout the state.

Plans for circulating the petition are being made by Mrs. Florence Spencer of Boston, long known as the "angel of the prisoners." For years she has pleaded with successive legislatures to pass an act repealing the death sentence, and having tired of her repeated defeats, now plans to invoke the initiative and referendum amendment of the constitution.

To place the matter before the voters, it will be necessary to obtain before the first Wednesday in December the signatures of at least 20,000 registered voters. With such a petition, the bill is considered by the legislature, and falling of passage there, an additional 5000 signatures must be obtained. With this aggregate of 25,000 signatures, the matter would go before all the voters of the commonwealth at the election in 1922, for their acceptance or rejection.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS SCHOOL
The complete registration figures for the Knights of Columbus evening school now show a total number of students amounting to 400. The registration books closed last night. The majority of the young men who have signed up for the courses are ex-servicemen, but many others, civilians, will receive instruction at cost. The details now to be arranged are the classification of students, the securing of quarters within the next week and the notification of students for the opening session. It is thought at present that a class in salesmanship might be started although such instruction was not included in the original plans.

COLLEGE FACULTY GOES ON STRIKE

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Oct. 6.—The principal and the faculty of Charlottetown Prince of Wales college went on strike yesterday for higher salaries. The staff had made several applications for salary increases, without answer, and had addressed protests to the government officials over their failure to act on their request.

PLAN RECRUITING DRIVE

An enthusiastic meeting of the members of Branch Pawtucketville, A.C.F., was held last evening in the quarters of the organization at the corner of Moody street and Government street with President Alphonse Bolduc in the chair. Routine business was transacted and interesting remarks were made by General Organizer J. R. Dupont, who has just returned from Ottawa, Ont., where for several years he was engaged in government work. Organizer Dupont informed his listeners that plans were being formulated by the general board of officers for a monster recruiting drive, which will be started within a short time in all centers in Canada and this country where there are locals of the Artisans. He would be coming to Lowell, and it is expected that at that time a mass meeting of all the branches of the organization in this city will be held.

THE FAIRMOUNT CLUB

Arrangements for a dance to be held in the near future were made at a meeting of the Fairmount club held last evening at the home of the president of the club, John King. The officers chosen for the management of the dance were as follows: John King, general manager; Martin Cosgrave, assistant general manager; Thomas E. Clark, door director; William Welch, treasurer.

NERVE WEAKNESS A CURSE TO THE NATION

Mentally and physically the bodies of nerve-weakened men, women, prematurely old people are craving for simple organic phosphorus," says a physician.

There are ten million people in America today who are weak, nervous, lack energy and ambition and are too exhausted mentally and physically to keep up their end in the modern battle of life.

These people, according to physicians who have made a close study of present day living, are lacking organic phosphorus with their food for a few weeks. When this is absorbed in the system, it becomes quickly converted into healthy living tissue full of renewed energy and vigorous nerve force.

Thousands of people are finding this out every day, especially in the large cities where druggists report a surprisingly large sale of bitro-phosphate, which is the one organic phosphate of the purest form best known to the public.

Phosphorus is vitally necessary to every living cell in the body, and especially to the nerve cells.

It aids in strengthening disordered nerves, invigorating the brain cells and bringing that much admired keenness of mind.

Tired, restless people need Bitro-phosphate most, for when nerve force is present, nerve cells are strong and completely under control. This means more health where more health is needed. A. W. Dowd and every druggist knows all about plain Bitro-phosphate, for people are fast learning that simple remedies are best.

WILSON SAYS SPENCER'S STATEMENT FALSE

LONDON, Oct. 6. (By the Associated Press).—The condition of Terrence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork, incarcerated in Brixton prison, remained unchanged last night.

Authentic information regarding Mayor MacSwiney's fast continues to be confined to cryptic statements issued by the home office and the somewhat more elaborate bulletins from the London headquarters of the Irish Self-Determination League.

The statements from both of these sources have been for some time of a rather stereotyped form, replete with the words "weakened," "exhausted" and "prostrate," but inquiries yesterday afternoon in both quarters brought words that neither government officials nor the MacSwiney family are seriously concerned over the immediate danger of the prisoners death.

THE A. G. POLLARD BOWLING LEAGUE

For the bowling league of A. G. Pollard's store a very active season is planned, with games scheduled for the next 20 weeks on each Monday night except during the Christmas season. The league contests were opened on Monday night with Team Four taking first place for the highest total and J. Lebrun of the same team running by scoring 302 pinfalls.

The result of the last contests was as follows:

This ticket is good for 24 rides and can be used on any day within two weeks. The price is $4, which figures 15 2-3c. per ride.

The ticket is good for a ride between any point in the Lowell city zone and any point in the first interurban zone outside the city zone. It is good for the payment of fare of one person only at a time, and is intended to serve persons who now have to pay a regular cash fare of 30 cents, or, by the use of the 14 for $1 ticket, are charged 21 3-4c.

This ticket will be sold at agencies, list of which will be published, and also at the local office, 16 Prescott street.

Manager Lees explains that this 3-zone commutation ticket will be good between Braintree Centre and Chelmsford Centre, Braintree Centre and North Chelmsford, Pleasant street, Navy Yard, to North Chelmsford or Chelmsford Centre; in other words, from any of the central zones to any suburban zone, such as Tewksbury Centre, High street, Billerica, etc.

Another ticket to be issued in the year.

Lowell district is a Lowell city commutation ticket.

This ticket will also go into effect for the first time for a two-week period commencing Oct. 10 and ending Oct. 23. It will be good on any day in the two-week period for which it is sold and covers a ride between any point in the Lowell central zone and any point in the Lowell city zone, which means that it can be used for rides between points outside of the central zone but inside the city zone, and points in the central zone where the cheapest fare at the present time is 17 1-2c, namely one 10-cent cash and one ticket fare.

This ticket will give 24 rides for $3.20, which is 13 1-3c. per ride. It can be used for the payment of fare of one person only at a time.

Both of these tickets must be used within the two-week period in order that the rider shall get the full benefit of the reduced fare. The ticket will indicate plainly the date on which it expires.

Rev. Chauncey J. Hawkins Tells of Reactionary Spirit Toward Progress of Vital Religious Knowledge Here

"You can look America over and you will not find a city of the size and importance of Lowell where there is more of the reactionary spirit toward the progress of vital religious knowledge, or in which there is more reaction against all scholarly interpretation of religion," said Rev. Chauncey J. Hawkins at a meeting of the Lowell Congregational club in the Pawtucket church last evening. The statement was made during an address on "God's Call to the Congregational Churches of America."

In opening his address Dr. Hawkins pleaded for a revival of the spirit of the Puritans in the Congregational churches of the city. He said that the

Perfect Health Now

"I don't like much to have my name in the papers but since Tanlac has restored my son to health, I feel like it's my duty to let others know about it for we first heard of the medicine through the statements of other people," declared Mrs. Thomas Bramwell, of 1 Warwick street, New Bedford, Mass.

"My fifteen year old son, John, was in a very badly run down condition for several months, and it was only when we got Tanlac that he regained his health. He didn't have any appetite, and the little he did eat didn't seem to give him any nourishment or strength, and he became very weak and pale."

"At times he became so nauseated he could scarcely retain a bit of food on his stomach, and he got very thin. He was so awfully nervous that he couldn't rest well at night, and would even walk in his sleep. He was always complaining of feeling bad and of being tired out, and we were very much worried over his condition."

"I saw where Tanlac was helping so many people I decided to start John on it, and his appetite began to pick up on the very first bottle. Well, after taking two bottles he was improving right along in every way, and when he had finished the fifth bottle he just seemed like a different boy altogether. He has a big appetite now, and just eats anything he wants without complaining a bit of indigestion. He has a good healthy color in his face, and is just as bright and cheerful as anyone."

"The nervousness seems to have left him entirely for he sleeps good and sound all night long. He never complains of being tired out, but is full of life and energy, and seems to be feeling fine all the time. I'm just as grateful to Tanlac as I can be for putting him in such good health, and I only hope that this statement will lead others to try the medicine and get relief from their troubles also."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Greens Drug Store, Merrimack square, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative and by the leading druggists in every town.—Adv.

Mrs. A. T. Howe and H. A. Buell sang a duet with Sidney B. Fleet as accompanist.

During the evening a report was presented by the secretary of the club containing a tribute to the memory of the late Arthur K. Whitcomb.

S. H. Thompson made an appeal for a "no" vote on the referendum on the so-called beer bill that is to appear on the ballots at the state election in November.

any summer for the past 20 years was recorded in Lowell during the months of July, August and September this year, according to figures prepared by Agent Francis J. O'Hara of the board of health.

A few years ago the health authorities always looked forward to the summer months with dread because of the inevitable death of a large number of infants during that period. Recently, however, there has been a gradual reduction in the number of deaths as the result of the efforts of the nurses of the board of health, Lowell Guild and other organizations. Only 113 deaths were reported in the three summer months of this year, according to the records of the board of health. In the same three months of 1901, 20 years ago, just twice that number of deaths of children less than a year old were reported. The figures for the past 20 years, embracing the months of July, August and September, have been as follows:

STREET RAILWAY FARE PROBLEM

The street railway fare problem came up again yesterday when it was announced by George F. Wells, a member of the home rule committee and secretary of the chamber of commerce, that he has filed a request with Thomas B. Lee, district manager of the Eastern Massachusetts, calling for the production of information bearing on the transportation question. Mr. Wells has asked for figures showing the total number of passengers carried monthly thus far this year, the number of ticket and cash fare patrons and the largest number of passengers carried on any one day during the last nine months. No information was obtainable at the offices of the street railway company as to whether this information could be furnished.

John B. Curtin, secretary of the home rule committee, stated today that the committee would probably be called in special session to consider in conference with the members of the municipal council matters connected with the fare situation as soon as the mayor returns from a journey that he is now making to Philadelphia and Atlantic City. It is understood that the mayor will be back at his office Saturday of this week.

Interest keenly alive in the proposal to obtain a lower street railway fare in Lowell is keenly alive in shown by the number of inquiries regarding the situation that are being showered upon members of the home rule committee. Most of the people who make inquiries also have suggestions to offer regarding what should be done to give the people of the city a more satisfactory fare rate.

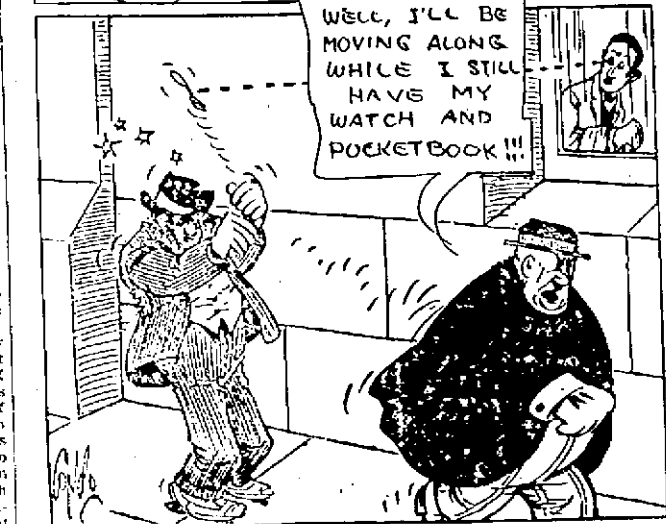

A suggestion that is being widely discussed involves placing the street railway lines upon a mileage basis of charges similar to that which exists on the steam railroads. Advocates of this method of collecting income claim that it would increase travel and thus add to revenue by inducing people to ride for short distances. They claim that a passenger can be carried with a profit to the company from Merrimack square to the Middlesex street railroad station for much less than a ten cent cash fare or 7 cent ticket fare. They claim that under the present method of collecting fares the short-haul passenger, whose patronage is most valuable to the road, is frightened away from the cars because he has to contribute for the carrying of passengers some distance, sometimes on lines that are not and apparently not likely to be in the near future, paying propositions.

Advocates of the mileage system say that there are many times more people within a mile of Merrimack square or city hall who would use the railway if fares were reasonable than there are within a two mile or three mile radius of the same spots, and that the farther removed a section is from the center of the city the less is the number of potential passengers.

people of Winchester and Montvale, and would it encourage travel for the shorter and more profitable haul? Friends of the mileage system advocate the establishment of a central city zone, with transfers from one line to another, with a five cent fare. The limits of this zone would be determined by the prospects for travel, and regulated with reasonable exactness. Beyond the central zone there would be other zones, the width of which should be based upon the cost of transporting a traveler the distance that would be covered by a two, three or five cent fare. The zones would be made as narrow as consistent, with convenience to assure, as nearly as possible, that each passenger should pay for the transportation that he receives.

It is stated that this system has worked out well in other cities. It has been suggested that the change be made by the city council, and that a committee of citizens be organized to visit other places where the mileage system is working satisfactorily, for the purpose of gaining first hand information on the subject. No information was available at the chamber's room today, as to the possibility of such authorization being given. It is understood, however, that the fare problem will be one of the principal subjects of discussion at the next meeting of the board of directors of the chamber.

WILL REOPEN AGAWAM STREET SCHOOL

The pupils of the Agawam street school, who were recently transferred to the Carter street school, will be sent back to their former school not later than next Monday pending a thorough investigation of the entire school system of this city. This action was taken last evening at an adjourned meeting of the school board, which was held for the purpose of hearing complaints from residents of Pawtucketville on the transfer of the seventh grade pupils of the Pawtucket school to the Bartlett school and the closing of the New Moody street school. In the course of the meeting a tribute was paid to the memory of the late Arthur K. Whitcomb, former superintendent of schools.

The meeting was called to order shortly after 8 o'clock by Chairman Delaney with all members present with the exception of Dr. Rooney, who is confined to his home with illness. The first matter taken up was the hearing on the complaints of residents of Pawtucketville. William H. Rigby, chairman of a committee of three from the Pawtucketville Improvement association, asked for a postponement of the hearing until the next regular meeting of the board on the ground that the association he represented was preparing important data to be presented before the board and that they had not completed their work. He stated that Monday night a largely attended meeting of the association was held in the Pawtucket church and the matter was discussed at length and it was decided to send a committee of three rather than have the members attend the hearing in a body. He requested that the meeting be postponed until the next meeting of the board, but Mr. Markham reminded the committee that at the next meeting a large amount of business will come up for discussion. It was voted to postpone the hearing to the call of the chair of the school board.

Owing to the absence of Dr. Rooney the matter of salaries was laid on the table until the next meeting. Leo A. King was granted a leave of absence from the evening school. Eugene J. Donovan and Anne Ruels were granted first and second grade certificates respectively. Flora Common was elected a teacher for the Vocational school, her salary to be fixed at the next meeting. The following temporary teachers were elected for the high school: Anna Lee Maguire, Mildred Beals, Anne Ruels and Rachael Woodworth. The tuition fees for non-residents attending the Vocational school were set at $150 for day students and $20 for night students. These figures, the superintendent stated, are agreeable to the state authorities.

The Girls' Community club requested that vocational courses be opened in the quarters of the organization and it was voted to authorize the superintendent to start vocational courses and Americanization classes wherever it is feasible and to report his doings at the next meeting. It was voted to authorize Major Jeyes and Miss Horne to direct, act as supervisor and take full charge of physical culture in the grammar schools.

In an endeavor to accommodate the continuation school classes, that are being held at the Green school it was voted to change the school hours of the 9th grade of the Green school from the regular time to the hours of 8 a. m. to 1 p. m. and it was also voted to round the no-school signal at 7:15 a. m. instead of 7:30 as heretofore because some of the members of the freshmen class of the high school are obliged to leave home at 7:20 a. m. in order to get to the school on time.

The following resignations were accepted: Marguerite J. O'Dwyer, school nurse; Celia B. Wood Donovan, Moody school; Margaret Donovan Reynolds, Lincoln school; Ruth Howe and Ruth Upton, Vocational school.

Mr. Pearson paid a tribute to the memory of Arthur K. Whitcomb, former superintendent of schools, saying that away back in 1850 he was a pupil at the Varnum school when Mr. Whitcomb was master. "I have followed his career," he continued, "and I can speak with knowledge. Mr. Whitcomb proved himself an able master of the Varnum school and as far as his work as superintendent of schools is concerned, it is not up to me to comment upon it. For we all know what his qualifications were." Gen. Pearson then moved and it was voted that a page of the records be set aside for a suitable memorial and that resolutions of condolence be sent to the family. At this point the chairman announced that the closing of the department at city hall will be closed during the funeral and that all the public schools of the city will close for the afternoon on the day of the funeral. He also stated that the board and teachers' organization will be represented at the funeral. On motion of Mr. Pearson it was voted to authorize the superintendent to confer with the grammar masters' association for suitable memorials to the memory of masters who died in the service or who have served the school department many years.

The Agawam street school matter was then taken up. Mr. Pearson moved and it was voted that pending a survey of the entire school system of the city the pupils of the Agawam street school, who were recently transferred to the Carter street school, be sent back to the Agawam street school, and the chairman announced that the transfer would be made Monday at the latest.

NEWS OF THE DAY IN POLICE COURT

In police court this morning before Judge Knight, John Baker and Joseph Levasseur were found guilty of assault and battery upon James Stamas, proprietor of a fruit and confectionery store at the corner of Salem street and Willis avenue, and given sentences of three months in the house of correction. On entering appeals both defendants were ordered to recognize in the sum of $300 for appearance in superior court.

The assault was committed on Saturday afternoon, September 25, at 2 o'clock near the complainant's store. It was alleged that Baker and Levasseur, walked past Stamas' store and threw up a pear from the fruit stand, and that when the store owner followed them to reprimand them for doing so they set upon him and beat him severely, cutting him above the eye and injuring his mouth. Levasseur claimed that he did not strike Stamas, but kept Baker and another fellow following him by rushing in amongst them and separating them.

Three witnesses in the store at the time testified that Baker and Levasseur struck Stamas and that he fell to the ground.

Stamas, who delivered the cash price to Prenotakis, Perry pleaded guilty but Prenotakis entered a plea of not guilty. Suit Against St. Railway signal was given and Mrs. Collins was thrown stumbling along the street but was not thrown down. He described his client's journey to the center of the city and her later turn of events. He said that evidence would be submitted to prove that Mrs. Collins had been confined to her home several months, that she had not been able to do active work since and that medical experts would testify that her injuries were of a permanent nature.

Examined by Mr. Rogers, Mrs. Collins testified regarding her attempt to board the car and of its being suddenly started. She said there were a number of people on the platform and that the conductor was inside collecting fares when he gave the starting signal. She said that since the accident she had suffered from nervous depression, indigestion and that she could not sleep. She was also affected in other ways, she said.

Cross-examined by F. N. Wier, for the defense, the plaintiff said that after the accident she entered the car and that the conductor said he was sorry for what had happened. She said she replied, "I guess I am so small you couldn't see me." She denied that she had said at the time that she was not hurt.

The witness said that after the accident she went to a meeting in the tabernacle and returned home about 10 o'clock. She told of being treated later by two doctors.

Answering questions by Mr. Rogers, the witness said she had lost 22 pounds of weight since the accident.

James F. Hurley testified that he was employed by his wife who owns a store at 780 Moody street in which Mrs. Collins made a few purchases previous to boarding the car. He told of the plaintiff's being thrown when the car started and that the conductor had his back turned at the time.

He said that before the accident Mrs. Collins was a "perfect woman," but that since then she had been lame.

Answering a question by Mr. Wier, the witness said the conductor was not inside of the car when Mrs. Collins tried to enter.

Patrick Joseph Meenan, M.D., examined by A. S. Howard, testified that he had known Mrs. Collins 10 or 12 years and that she was in good health previous to the accident. He said he was called to treat her April 17 and that he found her confined in bed, that she expectorated blood, that she was suffering from severe nervous shock and general soreness of the muscles and nausea. He said he had last examined Mrs. Collins October 1 and that she is still suffering from nervous shock, nausea and indigestion.

The witness said that in his opinion the present physical condition of the plaintiff would probably continue during the rest of her lifetime.

In answer to question by Mr. Wier, the witness said that he did not think the fact that litigation is pending would affect the nervous condition of the plaintiff.

Dr. Marshall L. Alling testified regarding an examination of Mrs. Collins made on July 9. He said that he believed that the plaintiff had a high blood pressure before the accident, and that the shock sent the pressure higher and overloaded the heart causing a general physical breakdown. There was a sharp interchange of remarks between the witness and Mr. Wier when the latter attempted to confine the witness' testimony to direct answers to questions.

"May I speak to you," said the witness, addressing Judge Bishop, "I have sworn to tell the truth and I cannot do so by saying 'yes' or 'no'."

The witness was instructed that he must confine himself to a direct responsive reply to interrogations.

When Food Doesn't Digest

Give the Stomach a National Rest by Proper Aid, Not by Harsh Starvation Methods. Use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

A sour stomach may indicate an acid condition that calls for an alkali effect. This you will get from one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after a meal. Sour risings, gasiness, a heavy burden of indigestion and much distress due to indigestion or dyspepsia are usually only temporary. And yet they may lead to serious disorder. The regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals relieves to a high degree the intelligent selection of preventative measures. One cannot always select or inspect the quality of food to be eaten, nor its method or manner of preparation. But it is possible to avoid the acidity that is so often the result. And it is a far better plan to eat without worry over what may happen, than to starve for fear it will happen. Many physicians recommend these tablets for stomach distress due to indigestion or dyspepsia. They are sold by all druggists everywhere at 60 cents a box. Adv.

BLACKHEADS GO QUICK BY THIS SIMPLE METHOD

Blackheads—big ones or little ones—soft ones or hard ones—on any part of the body go quick by a simple method that just dissolves them. To do this, get about two ounces of calomel powder from your druggist—sprinkle a little on a hot wet sponge, rub over the blackheads briskly for a few seconds and wash off. You'll wonder where the blackheads have gone. The calomel powder and the hot water have just dissolved them. Scrubbing and squeezing blackheads only open the pores of the skin and leave them open and unsightly—and unless the blackheads are big and soft they will not come out while in this simple application of calomel powder and water dissolves them right out, leaving the skin soft and the pores in their natural condition. You can feel the powder at any drug store and if you are troubled with these unsightly blemishes you should certainly try this simple method. Adv.

HEAR BUILDING COMMISSIONS

Charter Investigators Query High School and Auditorium Building Officials

Members Report Both Structures Progressing Rapidly—No More Money Needed

Give Personal Views on Charter and Make Suggestions for Better Government

Members of the Lowell charter commission and 50 or more other interested citizens were given detailed accounts of the progress of the new high school and the memorial auditorium at last evening's meeting of the commission at city hall.

The chairman and other members of the two commissions appointed to supervise the erection of these buildings, as well as the architects, said that the structures would be completed within the available funds, and on schedule time.

After answering questions pertaining to the buildings, several of the commissioners gave their views on city charters. John H. Harrington, chairman of the memorial auditorium building commission, favored a governing body of 25 men, serving without salary. He believed the mayor should have more power. He also advocated the use of sealed bids in electing or removing department heads, the abolition of the purchasing agent's office, a larger salary for the mayor, the establishment of a public works department to look after municipal construction.

Lithuanian-Polish Situation, However, Seems to Have Become More Acute

RIGA, Oct. 6.—(By Associated Press)—The Russo-Polish armistice negotiations are being rushed to a speedy conclusion, but the Lithuanian-Polish situation seems to have become more acute.

According to present plans which are not definitely settled, however, the armistice between Soviet Russia and Poland and the preliminary peace treaty will be signed at a public plenary session of the peace conference next Friday.

Woman Injured While Boarding Electric Car in Moody Street

Husband of Woman Seeks Compensation for Loss of Wife's Services

The sudden starting of a car of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway was the alleged reason for injuries for which Lena B. Collins of 738 Moody street sought to recover damages in a suit against the company on trial before Judge S. E. Bishop and a jury in the superior court today. The suit of Frank J. Collins, husband of the plaintiff, for recovery of compensation for loss of the services of his wife was given a joint hearing.

Melvin G. Rogers, in opening the case for the plaintiff, said that Mrs. Collins boarded a closed car on Moody street near the corner of White street, early in the evening of April 8, 1920, and that she grasped the platform railing with her left hand and held her pocketbook and clothing with her right hand. TO PROBE BURNING OF GIANT GERMAN LINER

PARIS, Oct. 6.—The Inter-Allied commission in Berlin will be requested to investigate the burning at Hamburg of the German steamship Bismarck, which was to have been delivered to the allies under the terms of the peace treaty.

The Bismarck, which was under construction in a shipyard, was to have a gross tonnage of 56,000, nearly 2000 more than the Leviathan, which would have made the world's largest steamship. She had been virtually completed and would have been surrendered to the Inter-Allied naval commission within a few weeks.

The French government will also ask Germany for explanations, the foreign office announces.

AT MARLBHEAD

Lowell Fire Department Second Shift Baseball Team Guests of Marlborough's Fire Department, Chief

The members of the second shift baseball team of the Lowell fire department are today the guests of Chief Adams of the Marlborough fire department, who is conducting a gala day for his men and invited guests. The Lowell ball players accompanied by some 500 rooters, headed by Lieut. Foster, the manager of the team, and having as special guests former Commissioner Charles J. Stone and Commissioner John P. Salmon, left the Central fire station shortly before 10 o'clock this morning in a large automobile truck and sped over the road to the seashore.

Upon reaching Marlborough the Lowell delegation was received by Chief Adams and other members of his department and they were entertained at luncheon. In the afternoon a program of sports was carried out and at 3 o'clock an old fashioned shore dinner was served. The trip was a most enjoyable one and before leaving Marlborough the Lowell firemen and baseball players extended their thanks to their host for his cordial hospitality.

The first shift baseball team of the local department will journey to Salem next Saturday, where in the afternoon its members will cross bats with the Witch City department team. It is expected that the game will be an interesting one for some time ago the Salem players came to Lowell and were given an awful beating. It is said they still have the defeat on their minds and that they will do their utmost to get back at the Lowell boys.

After the game the Lowellites will be entertained at luncheon. The trip to Salem will be made in automobiles.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Abe Attell, "Nick the Greek," and two other gamblers were expected to appear before Asst. Dist. Atty. Smith today to be questioned in a search for the "Master mind" who fixed last year's world series.

"Nick" Makes Denial
CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—"Nick the Greek"—Nicholas Dandolos, well known in sporting circles here, today denied that he had won money on the 1919 world series, as New York authorities have charged. He said he bet $4000 on the White Sox and lost, but won $2000 on the game. "Cotton" won, making his net loss $4000. He said he was willing to go to New York and testify if called.

EBBETTS FIELD, Brooklyn, Oct. 6.—The Brooklyn Dodgers evened up the world's series today by winning over the Cleveland Indians, who took the opening game yesterday. Manager Robinson sent in Grimes, his leading pitcher, while Speaker called on Bagby. Brooklyn started right in at the outset to get the jump, and after scoring one run played with confidence and determination. Tomorrow the teams will meet here in the third game after which they will jump to Cleveland.

The chill of yesterday's defeat and a cold night did not freeze the enthusiasm of the fans who came early to the ball yard. Spectators seeking seats in the unreserved stands began to form in the two hours before sunup and shivered and shook in the Arctic blast that came out of the north. A groundkeeper, making his rounds 'at midnight, heard a heavy snore behind the score board in left field. He promptly uncorked four more quack-breaking pills in the ball park after yesterday's game, and were taking a night's rest in a nest of newspapers.

The Batteries
The wind had dried out the playing field so that the groundkeepers had to spray it with water to keep down the dust. Those who came early to the game bundled themselves up in great coats and the players wore heavy sweaters.

First Inning
Cleveland: Jamieson went out, Koney to Grimes. Johnston threw out Wamby at first. Speaker singled past Johnston. Grimes made a pitch out, but Speaker did not attempt to go down. Smith struck out, being unable to distinguish Grimes' quick-breaking spitball. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Brooklyn: Olson popped to Wamby, hitting the first ball pitched. Johnston got a hit into deep short. Johnston stole second. Griffith went out, Johnston to Bagby. Johnston going to third. Johnston scored on Wheat's hit into center field for two bases. Wheat made second by fast base running. Gardner threw out Myers at first base. One run, two hits, no errors.

Second Inning
Cleveland: Gardner got a two-base hit into left field. Grimes took Johnston's grounder and tossed to Olson, who touched out Gardner between the bags. Johnston getting to first. Sewell filed to Olson. Johnston went out stealing. Miller to Kilduff. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Brooklyn: Jamieson made a nice catch of Koney on a line drive. Kilduff lined Gardner. Miller popped to O'Neill, who took the ball near the visitors' bench. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Third Inning
Cleveland: Grimes tossed out O'Neill at first. Grimes knocked down Beaty's hot grounder and threw him out. Jamieson stung a single over second. Wamby filed out to Wheat. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Brooklyn: Grimes singled through the pitcher's box. Grimes took Olson's sacrifice and threw wildly to second. Both batter and runner were safe. Grimes was spiked as he slid into second. It was no sacrifice for Olson but a fielder's choice. Johnston fouled out to O'Neill trying to bunt. Grimes scored on Griffith's two-base hit into right field. Olson going to third. Wheat was purposely passed, filling the bases. The Cleveland infield played in close. A double play followed. Gardner took Myers' grounder and threw to O'Neill, who threw to first. The throw hit Myers on the back. Griffith tried to score on the play, but was thrown out. Johnston to O'Neill. One run, two hits, one error.

Fourth Inning
Cleveland: Speaker walked, Smith grounded out to Koney, unassisted. Speaker moving on to second. Gardner filed to Myers. Johnston filed out to Wheat, who ran back to the bleachers.

tion, a board of health, and license commission, without pay and the right of the mayor to ask for the resignation of any head of a department or subordinate in city hall whom he considered inefficient.

Dr. John H. Lambert, chairman of the high school building commission, favored the present form of charter, but believed that school department managers should be divorced from other municipal finances. He advocated a commission to have charge of all school property and said that the school department should have its own purchasing agent. He felt that the head of each department should have complete control over that department.

The meeting was called at 7:15 and after the reading of the minutes of the last meeting by the secretary, the report of George F. Noonan, former superintendent of the city scales, for 1919, was received and placed on file. It showed that the total revenue of the department for that year was $105.55.

A detailed report of the cost of paving of Fletcher and Union streets and a portion of Lawrence street, submitted by Clinton P. Tuttle, chief clerk of the street department, was also placed on file.

John H. Harrington
John H. Harrington, chairman of the memorial auditorium building commission, was first called. He said, in part:

You'll Come in and Try
Mr. Edison's Realism Test

People all over the country are talking about Mr. Edison's Realism Test. It has astonished them with a new insight into the New Edison's marvelous Realism.

Try this interesting test for yourself. The Realism Test will help you to determine whether the New Edison causes you the same emotions as the voice of the living singer—the sound of an actual instrument—or the strains of an entire orchestra.

The NEW EDISON "The Phonograph with a Soul"

Think of the last time you heard a fine singer, a good instrumentalist—or a large orchestra. Ask to have the New Edison Re-Creat these kinds of music.

When you have taken the Test, you will know definitely if the New Edison can substantiate its claim to Supreme Realism.

Ask about our Budget Plan, which finds the money to pay for your New Edison now. The price of the New Edison has gone up less than 15% since 1914. Mr. Edison has absorbed more than one half of the increased cost of manufacture.

moniously; we are keeping within our appropriation and we hope to give the citizens of Lowell a substantial and worthy structure.

"Of course, we have had our troubles; there has been an increase in the prices of materials, but we have had very valuable assistance from our architect."

"He expects to have the wings of Liberty hall at East Mainplace and Brown street roofed before the snow falls. He also expects to have the entrance to Trophy hall ready by that time."

"It is our intention, first of all, gentlemen, to give you a good building. What we have left we shall spend in embellishing the grounds surrounding it. We shall certainly give you a million dollars worth of return for the money we have received."

The chairman asked the seating capacity of the new building. Mr. Harrington replied that the main building would seat 4500 people. Members of various organizations which are to be housed in wings of the auditorium will have an opportunity to use the main building, he said.

Chairman Casey said that he felt that the citizens of Lowell are satisfied that they are getting a dollar's worth of return for every dollar spent. The chairman referred to the old advisory board appointed by former Mayor O'Donnell to build the new high school, and asked if the recommendations of the board were carried out by the city council.

Mr. Harrington said that one of the recommendations of the advisory board was that the work should be let out under one general contract. The recommendation was adopted by the council, he said, but a few days later some interested citizens, convinced the members of the council that they had made a mistake.

The council then voted to rescind the measure, although Mayor O'Donnell, to his everlasting credit, opposed it vigorously, said Mr. Harrington. "Nevertheless," continued Mr. Harrington, "the measure was rescinded and I say to you, Mr. Chairman, that that vote cost the taxpayers over $1,000,000. Had the council gone ahead as we thought it would, children would have been going to school a year ago in a building constructed within the original appropriation of $700,000."

"I don't want my remarks to be considered as the slightest reflection on the present commission. They were left a hardheaded legacy. They have been strapped hand and foot and right to designate who shall act in his absence.

"I believe in a definite tenure of office. If there is a little rotation in office once in a while, I don't think there will be any harm done."

"I believe the purchasing agent's office should be abolished. The head of each department should have complete control of his department and be alone responsible for its management. He should buy his own supplies."

"I don't believe in civil service as applied to municipal affairs. It was installed to remedy an evil, but in this instance the remedy was worse than the disease. There is one thing that is stronger than the civil service—that is public opinion. I don't know one city department that has been benefited by the operation of the civil service laws. Many of them have been injured."

"On the matter of over-running appropriations we thought that the present charter had an iron-clad provision to prevent this, but it failed. I think you should draft something to prevent the city treasurer from paying a bill that exceeds one-twelfth of the annual appropriation. I think you could frame something of that kind that would be effective."

Mr. Casey said that system would do away with the supplementary budget.

"A budget by any other name would smell as bad," said Mr. Harrington.

"I believe the license commission should work without pay. I think you can get as good men or the same men as you have now to serve without pay. I'd use them, work them and thank them."

Mr. Harrington also favored a public works department as advocated by City Engineer Kearney. He said he believed that the health department officials should serve without pay. There should be one salaried official, but as for the rest, he believed there would be plenty of young physicians willing to give their time gratis. He cited the examples of doctors who serve without pay in hospitals.

Mr. Harrington said that he felt that the present charter made the commissioners earn their money. He believed that it would be very unreasonable to expect men to come to city hall run a department and legislate as well without salary.

Mr. Harrington asked Mr. Harrington if he had given any thought to the manner of making up the annual budget. Mr. Harrington said that he believed that the heads of the departments should come before the council at the beginning of the year and explain what they intended to do and state how much money they would need.

Mr. Harrington said that it wasn't necessary for the mayor to be a member of special commissions. He is bigger than any commission, he maintained.

"Give the mayor great power, he can't take advantage of it because the council has a check on him," said Mr. Harrington.

"When I spoke about the mayor having the power to remove subordinates, I meant men exclusively, Mr. Chairman. In all my experience in city affairs, I have never found the women clerks at city hall in Caesar's wife-above-suspicion."

Mr. Doran asked Mr. Harrington if he believed in a supply department. The latter replied in the negative. He believed the head of each department should buy all his supplies.

Clarence H. Blackall

Clarence H. Blackall, architect of the memorial auditorium, was next called. He expressed his appreciation of the way in which the auditorium commission went about its work. It has been very careful of the rights of the public. There has been perfect harmony, he said.

"I am confident that we shall complete the building, finish it and complete the grounds within our appropriation."

Views on Charter

Asked for ideas as to a change in charter, Mr. Harrington said:

"I give you this as a very humble citizen. It's been my duty as a newspaper publisher to chronicle the doings at city hall for some time, so I ought to know what I want if I've had my eyes open, and I think I have."

"Of course, I don't think that we shall ever have a perfect charter. I'd advise you to draft a new charter. As a man who advocated the present charter, I am willing to confess that this charter is a failure."

"I'd rather have 27 men in the government instead of the present number, five. That would give the young men a chance. Why, you'll die of old age before you'll get in under this charter. The larger governing body would mean more interest in city affairs."

"I believe the men should be elected at large. I'm utterly opposed to ward representation. I should have them serve without pay."

"Another thing that I should like to see would be a secret ballot on the election or removal of officials. I don't favor this oral balloting, as is now the custom."

Chairman Casey doubted if the legislature would allow a secret ballot. Mr. Harrington thought it would be worth while to make an attempt at getting it.

"I'd like to have your mayor elected as an executive, not as a member of the council," he said. "He should have veto power. In matters involving the expenditure of money, I think a three-fourths vote of the council should be necessary to override him. On other matters I think a two-thirds vote would be enough."

"I think he should have the appointment of committees. I think you should pay your mayor a decent salary. It's a shame to have a man of the capacity of Mayor Thompson working for the wages of an artisan."

"Your mayor should have the power to remove the head of any department. I think the council should elect the heads of departments."

"I do not believe the mayor should be the head of any department, but the father of them all. I believe if you give the mayor the power to remove heads of departments, he'll never have to use it."

"If I would have that power of removal extend to every subordinate in the building, then you'll have a mayor that will be earning his salary. There are occupants of this building who are doing things with impunity. That wouldn't happen if the mayor had the power to remove them."

"The mayor should also have the power to remove the head of any department. I think the council should elect the heads of departments."

"For 27 years I suffered all the tortures of pain that go with rheumatism, in my feet, knees, hips, elbows, shoulders, in fact, all over my body. I doctored for it in Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, Michigan and Wisconsin. Went to a sanitarium in Milwaukee, took all kinds of baths, etc., but got very little relief, took every kind of medicine that was recommended me to relieve rheumatism, but only got a little relief for a while. I was laid up in bed for over a year altogether. One day, while reading a Boston newspaper, I saw a case like mine that Var-ne-sis relieved. I made up my mind to send for it, and thank God I did, for I am now a well man, entirely free from rheumatic pains. Wishing you success with your medicine and hoping you will live a great many years to help others as you helped me. Yours respectfully,"

"That is what I mean," said Mr. Harrington.

SICK CHILDREN NOT PROPERLY CARED FOR
(Special to The Sun)
STATE HOUSE, Boston, Oct. 6.—Hundreds of sick children, wards of the state, are being improperly cared for, and as a result are "an ever increasing danger to themselves."

This is the declaration of the state board of charity, in its report to the legislature, made public today. The condition, the board says, is due to the lack of suitable and adequate hospital facilities.

"The need of provision for hospital care for sick state minor wards long ago reached an acute stage," says the report. "The board has constantly in its care hundreds of children, each of whom is for days, weeks or perhaps months in need of hospital treatment. Such children are for the time being incapable of placement in homes. They require treatment in some institution until their health is such that they may be sent out into the community. With a total of 6501 children in the board's care the margin of cases requiring hospital treatment is constant and may be expected to increase each year in exact proportion to the normal increase in the total number of wards."

"The board has no hospital in which to treat these children. Some, falling sick in the foster homes, are cared for at private hospitals at state expense. Most of them are sent to the state infirmary, the only public institution to which the board can place them. Here they are out of place and greatly hamper the infirmary in its more legitimate activities. Thus located, they are an ever-increasing danger to themselves. At the same time they lose the benefit of special care and treatment so frequently demanded by the miserable condition in which they are found by the authorities, and in which they remain at the time of commitment to the board's custody."

will close its engagement at the Merrimack Square theatre this evening and tomorrow afternoon there will be the usual mid-week change of program.

The feature for the second half of the week will be Ethel Clayton in a story of appealing and novel theme: "The City Sparrow."

The story is one of the sweetest ever told and contrasts the smoky city life with the refreshing beauty of Nature's realm. Clyde Fillmore is leading man and others in the cast who acquitted themselves well are Walter Hiers, William Boyd, Rose Cade, Robert Brower, Lillian Leighton, Bartine Burkett and Sylvia Ashton.

Other features for the week-end will include an exceptionally funny Christie comedy, "Seven Bad Dates"; the International News, Will Rogers' funny "Illustrated Digest" and a Burton Holmes' travel picture. Remember: "Always a good show" at the Merrimack Square.

part of responsibility in "putting the piece over" and they receive the support of a competent cast. Max Driess and Miss Hill are especially amusing in their parts. The piece is well staged, and judging from the many favorable comments, is accomplishing its purpose to a nicety.

THE STRAND

Jack London's name is synonymous with extraordinary sea romances and stories of the "ho-man," variety, so that it's not unusual to find "The Mutiny of the Elisha" which is being shown for the last time today at the Strand one of those big, vigorous, gripping stories of the sea. It's a big story and is playing to big audiences. Anne Cornwall, one of the new stars of the silver screen in "The Girl in the Rain" is the other offering and it's a good companion picture to the former.

What Women Love, with Annette Kellerman appearing in the principal role, is drawing capacity audiences to the Rialto theatre. It will continue through the entire week. The picture is an absorbing story of an innocent athletic country girl, who has to grapple with a brute of a man 20 feet under the sea surface after making a dive of 150 feet from the mast of a schooner. "The Sheriff of Muscatine" and the ninth episode of the "Third Eye" will be seen for the last time today. A Hank Mann comedy, the Fox news and an educational film serve to complete the well balanced bill.

H. F. REITH'S THEATRE

The sweetest of little love comedies is "Morning Glory," which is on the bill at the H. F. Reith theatre, and the one lady on the vaudeville stage today whose middle name is Personality is Patricia. Take these two little tips, for they are really very honest. Noel Travers and Rene Douglas appear in "Morning Glory," together with Louis Thiele, a splendid character actor.

BISHOP BEAVEN DEAD

Springfield Prelate Died Suddenly at Age of 71—Noted Orator

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 6.—Right Rev. Thomas D. Beaven, D.D., aged 71 years, bishop of the Springfield Roman Catholic diocese, died suddenly yesterday afternoon of heart disease at the episcopal residence on Elliott street, this city. Until the last few months he had enjoyed perfect health. The funeral will be held at St. Michael's cathedral Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

Holy Cross Graduate
 Rt. Rev. Thomas D. Beaven, D.D., was born in Springfield in 1849, son of Thomas Beaven, for many years an employe of the Albany railroad in Springfield.

Graduating with highest honors at the age of 21 at Holy Cross college, Worcester, he was expected by his parents to become a lawyer, and they were somewhat surprised when he chose the priesthood, though his brother James had been ordained and a brother of the mother of the two boys, Rev. Daniel Beaven, was a priest in Providence many years, and died there more than 30 years ago.

Bishop Beaven, after graduating at Holy Cross, held a professorship for two years at the College of Loyola, Baltimore, then completed his studies at the College of Montreal and was ordained to the priesthood in 1873, becoming assistant rector of a church in Spencer, in the diocese of which he was later to become the second bishop.

From 1879 till 1889 he was pastor of the Spencer church. He dedicated in 1887 a fine church edifice which he had been engaged in building during the five preceding years.

He became rector of the Church of the Holy Rosary, Holyoke, in 1889, remaining there till 1892, when he was appointed bishop of the Springfield diocese.

In 1899 Bishop Beaven, in a suit in regard to land which he had acquired for a church at Easthampton, was supported by the full bench of the supreme court in his contention that the late Judge Dana erred in ruling that Catholics could not sit on a jury in a case involving title to church property in their own diocese.

On January 5, 1910, Bishop Beaven offered in the state senate of Massachusetts the first prayer ever made there by a Catholic clergyman. During that year and the next he was active in a movement to raise $100,000 by contributions from priests for a new building for Holy Cross college.

In 1912 the bishop's 20th anniversary was celebrated with solemn ceremonies and a large attendance at St. Michael's cathedral in Springfield. Another notable ceremonial in which he was the commanding figure was

BABY NAMED

LYDIA E.

Because Her Mother Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I could not write all my thanks for your blessed medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in a very bad condition and had lost two babies. One of my good friends told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and after I had taken eight or ten bottles I felt like a different woman. I kept on taking it until my baby girl was born last month and we have had her christened Lydia Elizabeth. I wish you to publish my letter to benefit other women who are suffering as I was."—Mrs. KATHERINE KURZACKER, 1088 Manhattan Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Women who suffer from a feminine ailment should not lose hope until they have tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The many convincing testimonials constantly published in the newspapers ought to be proof enough for women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the medicine they need.

the celebration at that cathedral in 1916, of its 50th anniversary.

Three years ago his silver jubilee was celebrated at the cathedral and during the ceremony it was announced that the pope had made the bishop assistant at the pontifical throne.

On the occasion of his silver jubilee he was given a large sum of money by clergymen of the parish, with which he built the Home for Infants at Brightside. The Home for Aged Men was built there in memory of Bishop Beaven's father. The Home for Orphan Girls and Aged Women was built at Ingleside early in Bishop Beaven's administration. The Kennewick estate was bought and Graylock Rest, a private sanitarium, has been established there.

The activities of Bishop Beaven have not been confined to this immediate vicinity, and among some of the important institutions which his influence has established and fostered may be mentioned St. Vincent's hospital at Worcester, the House of Providence hospital at Holyoke, the Warren Memorial hospital at Montague City, near Greenfield, and St. Joseph's academy, Chicopee.

The sisters of the Good Shepherd were brought through Bishop Beaven's influence. The Mercy hospital was built and opened under his administration. St. Luke's home was bought and a maternity hospital established. The Convict Home for the Sisters of St. Joseph was built under Bishop Beaven's administration, and the Mt. Marie Summer Home for the Sisters.

The year of his consecration as bishop he secured the Brightside property and built the orphanage for boys and for infant children and a home for aged men.

During his administration of the diocese many church edifices have been erected in different cities and towns, sites have been purchased for new structures. At present there are now more than 50 schools, many hospitals and homes and 150 churches.

Bishop Beaven had officiated at the dedication of three new Catholic churches in his diocese during the last three weeks. The Springfield diocese embraces Worcester county and all counties in the entire west of it. Bishop Beaven ranked among the foremost pulpits of the Catholic church in New England. His amiability and refinement of manner, his quiet yet convincing power of speech and his earnest advocacy of all conservative measures made him honored and respected by all classes, and these qualities earned him a reputation possessed by but few clergymen of any denomination. Bishop Beaven was one of the most enthusiastic of the Holy Cross graduates and always had been a regular attendant at the commencement exercises and at the annual meetings.

The membership of the ladies' auxiliary of the local post of the American Legion is already 236 and with a membership campaign committee recently appointed, it is expected that the number will soon increase to the thousands. Mrs. Hewitt was appointed chairman of the membership committee and the following were appointed as assistants: Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Brady, Mrs. Patrick, Mrs. Henry, Mrs. Kearns, Miss Patrick, Mrs. Brick, Mrs. Connors.

These women will select others as members of their individual committees and a thorough canvass of the city for new members will be made.

Mrs. Charles Molloy was elected chairman of the financial committee, and as her assistants were elected: Mrs. Catherine Curtin, Mrs. Donovan, Mrs. Grace Molahan, previously elected secretary to the organization, was appointed financial secretary. It was voted to hold a meeting every Monday night until further notice.

Arthur Moran, vice commander of the local post of the legion, was present at the meeting. Mr. Moran was very active in the organization of the auxiliary, but from now on, since the officers have been chosen, the business and management will be in the hands of the women.

"Tap, tap, tap," banged Scribble Scratch on his desk with his measuring stick.

"Zoom, squeak, zoom," played Nick on his mouth-organ.

"Left, right, left," marched Nancy, leading the pupils of Meadow Grove school up one aisle and down the other while the visitors looked on with approval.

"Fine!" said Mr. Granddaddy Owl.

"Wonderful!" declared old Judge Crow.

"Remarkable!" cried Dr. Mink.

"Charming!" nodded Prof. Hare.

"It isn't that at all, honest!"

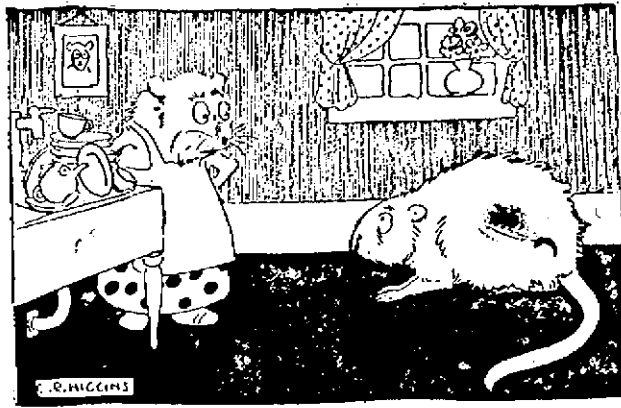

"Then it must be one of those lubber balloons! You blow them up faster than your pa can make the money to buy them."

"No, ma, it isn't that either," denied Markie.

Suddenly Mrs. Muskrat gave a shriek. "Markie, it can't be that you intend buying chewing gum!"

Markie looked as though he'd robbed a bank then, for his mother had guessed exactly right.

"Now, young man, you march right off to school," she scolded, "and don't

MRS. MUSKRAT STOPPED DOING THE BREAKFAST DISHES AND LOOKED AT HIM IN STERN AMAZEMENT.

"Very nice, indeed!" approved Mr. U. U. Chuck.

So they marched and sang about the "mosquito and the fish," and everything went very nicely, nobody dreaming what a dreadful time Markie Muskrat was having.

Here's the way it was:

That morning Markie said to his mother, "Say, ma, please give me a cent."

Let me hear another cheep out of you,"

But Markie's mouth was watering so for some chewing gum that he couldn't get it out of his mind. And he thought and thought how he could get a cent to buy some.

SENSATION CAUSED BY ASQUITH'S LETTER

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Former-Premier Asquith's letter to the London Times declaring that he was not alarmed by the spectre of an Irish republic and advocating dominion home rule in the widest sense, has created somewhat of a sensation in political circles and is considered significant in view of Viscount Grey's important announcement and the recent letter from Lord Curzon, which while making no actual contribution in the way of a solution of the Irish difficulty, advocated taking "larger views" in Irish matters.

Among the downright opponents of the concessions to Ireland, Mr. Asquith's letter is denounced as a "mere sop to Sinn Fein violence" and his advocacy of Ireland possessing its own army and a voice in treaty-making is seized upon as matters to which it would be impossible for the British public to consent.

The newspapers, commenting on the Asquith declaration, take up what they consider the weak spot, in that it fails to suggest any method of dealing with the Ulster question and show how the north and south can be brought together.

Taking this point, the Westminster Gazette, a moderate liberal organ, expresses the opinion that ultimately the only solution will be that of Viscount Grey, to throw the whole responsibility of finding a solution on the Irish people themselves.

Mr. Lloyd George will make a political announcement at Lunelley, Wales, Friday, and it is expected that he will deal with Mr. Asquith's proposals. He is credited with holding the belief that the British opinion could not expect him to go as far as Mr. Asquith suggests, but, according to the Standard's Dublin correspondent, he is expected to make another peace offer to the Sinn Fein.

MORE BALL PLAYERS TO BE INDICTED

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Evidence which officials in the state's attorney's office said would result in the indictment of several National league baseball players, was given the grand jury yesterday by players and club officials who testified in the inquiry into the baseball scandal.

There will be no indictment for 10 days or more, however, for the jury adjourned after the session, subject to call, and is not expected to reconvene until after the world's series. Adjournment was taken because it was found that several witnesses scheduled to testify are attending the series games.

John McGraw, Charles Stoneham, Benny Kauff, Larry Doyle, Fred Toney, Trainer Mackall of the Giants, Hughie Jennings, Jean Dubuc and "Kid" Gleason were the witnesses.

The New York testimony centered about activities of Heinie Zimmerman and Hal Chase in connection with alleged game "throwing," and tended, McGraw said, to clear Kauff and Toney of participation in any crooked work.

Kauff and Toney told the jury of offers made them by Zimmerman to throw games. Each said he refused the offer, and reported it to McGraw and Stoneham. The latter two confirmed the testimony of the players.

Fat That Shows Soon Disappears

Prominent fat that comes and stays where it is not needed is a burden, a hindrance to activity, and a curb upon pleasure. Many forms of advice to reduce weight have been advanced, such as dieting, hard work, excessive exercise, etc., all of which are either unpleasant or dangerous.

The latest, more modern and pleasant way to take off burdensome fat, is to take, after each meal and at bedtime, a Marmola Tablet. These little tablets are as effective and harmless as the famous Marmola Prescription from which they take their name. To get rid of fat at the rate of two, three or four pounds a week, simply take one of these little tablets after each meal and at bedtime until you have reduced your weight to where you want it. No wrinkles or flabbiness will remain to show where the fat came off.

They are for sale by all druggists at $1 for a good size box. If you prefer to have them sent by mail, direct by mail, please send plain sealed cover, send amount to the Marmola Co., 97 Garfield Building, Detroit, Mich., and bid goodbye to dieting, exercise and fat. THE FARE PROBLEM

It would seem to be clear that, if the present street car fare problem in the Lowell district of the Eastern Massachusetts company is to be satisfactorily solved, it must be as a result of the consideration of the subject from a viewpoint that will include the widest possible scope for suggestion and discussion.

It is admitted that the present system is not satisfactory. It seems quite plain that it works hardship to a number of people. The public trustees on their part are not by any means certain that the present rate will produce the revenues that they are required to raise by law, and there is little doubt that they would welcome any change that would be more satisfactory to the riding public and at the same time produce the necessary income.

Thus far but little seems to have been said about the adoption of a straight zone system. It has worked well in other cities. Would it not be well to consider its applicability here? It would seem to be a maxim of justice and common-sense that street car patrons should pay for what they receive in the way of transportation. There may be reasons why a man riding three miles should be charged the same fare as a man who rides four. If there are, it would seem fair that they should be produced.

The public trustees are aware, or can easily ascertain, exactly what it costs to carry a passenger a given distance in a given section of territory. With a fare based on this, each passenger would pay for his own ride and not for that of someone else.

It is admitted that it would not be feasible to introduce small zones into the heart of the city. Why, however, could not a zone of reasonable circumference, with its centre in Merrimack square, be established with a five-cent fare, and the use of transfers, and a fare rate of two cents, for instance, be charged for passage through each additional zone, the width of the zone to be determined by the cost of carrying a passenger. This system is now in successful operation in other cities.

England is to try a more rigorous method of crushing Ireland than is afforded by bullet, bayonet, bomb and petrol as used in the so-called reprisals of the barbarous "Black and Tan" Disarmament from end to end of the land and then submission or slaughter seems to be the new policy outlined. If Ulster is included in the disarming process, it may help to allay the fury of the Carsonites in their cry for civil war and their leadership in Black and Tan methods.

The Irish question, as we have repeatedly said, cannot be settled by the partition policy. Neither can it ever be settled while Carson exercises an absolute dictatorship in Irish affairs. Already the country is on the verge of ruin and anarchy, all because of Carsonism. It was Carson who a short time ago suggested a policy of extermination to be enforced against the Sinn Féin element. It was the followers of Carson who prevented the peaceful settlement provided on the home rule act from taking effect, and thereby stirred up all the trouble that has since swept the island. It was the Carsonites who defeated the aims of the so-called constitutional convention because they would agree to nothing except a motion to adjourn.

The first step towards a settlement of the Irish question must be to set aside the dictatorship of Carson over the British premier, over the house of lords and the whole British government.

There can be no settlement except one that will deal with Ireland as a unit and grant full self-government; but this can never be done while Carson dominates the king, lords and commons of England and while his approved Black and Tan butchers under the direction of General McCready, head of the Carson volunteers, treat the Irish people worse than the Germans treated the Belgians and as bad in many cases as the Turks are accused of treating the Armenians.

THE STATE CAMPAIGN

It is expected that the state campaign will be lived up to a bit from now until election day. The democrats have completed their ticket by naming Marcus A. Coolidge for lieutenant-governor and Edward E. Ginsburg of Brookline for secretary of state. Both are strong men and should be elected. Senator Walsh, the candidate for governor, is showing up the financial crisis precipitated through republican mismanagement. Had the republican authorities done their duty, they would not have permitted Ponzi to rob the people to the tune of $7,000,000. Their neglect in this respect has been responsible for the trouble that has since closed half a dozen banks.

The state treasurer used his office for graft and the man appointed to succeed him has been unable to take proper care of the state funds. Neither man is competent to fill the office of treasurer. On the democratic ticket is Mr. O'Hearn, a bank official who has not been involved in any of the financial troubles following the Ponzi operations. He will make an excellent treasurer if elected.

Republicans are disgusted with the administration of state affairs. Last year the city of Boston was wrecked for lack of police protection; this year the people were robbed of millions by swindlers who were allowed to conduct their business openly without police interference, thus leading the people to assume it was legitimate. If returned to power, something still worse may result from their mismanagement next year.

HAYWOOD AGAIN

New England papers on October 1 carried dispatches summarizing a speech made by "Big Bill" Haywood in Boston in the same old strain as in former years, except that he is now pleading for a soviet government in this country same as in Russia. It appears that Haywood must serve his sentence for evading the draft, but when he gets out he will resume his work as professional agitator for a soviet government in this country.

He styles himself as a "poviet" and rather expects sympathy on that head when pleading with the radicals.

The audience which he addressed in International hall in Roxbury contributed $200 for the I.W.W. members still retained in prison for various offences, chiefly opposition to the draft. While professional agitators like Haywood are allowed to go about this country preaching sedition and anarchy, it is useless to attempt to suppress radicalism. It can't be done. If it be necessary to maintain a penal colony for the "Reds," we should have it. Such men as Haywood should be either deported or locked up. His business is that of propagating the spread of revolutionary ideas or "Red" radicalism in this country and he is not hiding it. If that is a legitimate and remunerative calling unopposed by the government, it will hold out great inducements to European agitators to come here and preach the gospel of Trotsky and Lenin in favor of Russian sovietism.

It is time that some legal remedy were provided to deny the freedom of speech to men who preach the overthrow of our constitution.

THE WOMEN'S VOTE

The matter of registration is one of extreme importance for all those who are otherwise eligible to vote.

The women have been enfranchised under the 19th amendment, but they might as well not be invested with this privilege if they do not exercise the right to vote.

In order to do this, they must register with the election commissioners at city hall or at any of the special sessions held by the board at other points in the city.

The women of the republican wards are registering in full force, but those of the other wards seem to be indifferent. They do not appear to realize that for the first time in their lives, they are to be privileged to share in the selection of federal officials, president, vice-president, congressmen, senators and others. Thus they exercise a part of the sovereignty vested in the people. It should interest most women sufficiently to induce them to get registered so that they can vote on November 2.

The women throughout the country are preparing to show their strength in the coming election. Why not those of Massachusetts and why should those of Lowell lag behind?

A GENEROUS OFFER

In offering the American Legion a gift of $5,000,000 for a memorial building at Washington, the Knights of Columbus have adopted a graceful means of devoting the money placed in their hands to the purposes for which it was subscribed.

The order had quite a large fund on hand, when the armistice was declared, to be used for the relief of the soldiers. Much of it was used, but what remains is being used for the benefit of the soldiers through educational courses and otherwise. The gift of a great memorial building in the nation's capital is one that will remain not only as a memorial to the soldiers, but as an enduring evidence of the patriotism and the devotion of the Knights to the men who offered their lives for the flag when the rights of the nation were invaded and the freedom of the world was imperilled.

SCHIFF'S REQUESTS

The numerous magnificent bequests to charity amounting in all to $1,350,000 left by Jacob H. Schiff proves him to have been a real philanthropist. Although the larger amounts go to charities conducted by the Jewish people, yet he has included many of a public character to sustain public libraries, hospitals and institutions for the benefit of children of all classes. These donations to public charities should give the name of Mr. Schiff a high place among the philanthropists of this country.

It is very desirable that people should be protected against unsafe investments, but it is also wise to remember that if some of the drastic laws that are being proposed to deal with the matter had been in force when Professor Bell first began to try to convince the world that it was possible to talk over a wire we should very likely have no telephone.

The members of the Middlesex Women's club probably do not intend to undertake to reform the whole world all at once, but their list of activities for the winter would seem to indicate that they propose to get a readiness to undertake the task if the necessity should arise.

Yes, the women voters of Lowell have a right to resent the aspersions on their common sense cast by the G.O.P. leaders, who assert that 75 per cent of them are going to vote the republican ticket this fall.

If we are to believe current revelations, a lot of people who showed their interest in baseball contests were really applauding the success of the efforts of some players to lose the games.

John Golden says that the textile workers do not believe in sovietism. Nor does anyone else with intelligence enough to be entitled to remain outside sovietism.

The foremost debatable question of the hour—shall the "heavies" come out of the moth chest?

SEEN AND HEARD

"It's a serious world that greets the world's series."

It is indeed a pathetic cellar that has been able to withstand 15 months of drought.

If winter fingers in the lap of spring, summer is a hussy, too, and frequently vamps autumn.

Make your own comment on this one: A Vancouver man sued for divorce because his wife didn't speak to him for a year.

It must be tough on the fellow with poetry in his soul to know that writing verses to a girl is considered very silly.

The Paper Napkin

The Boston Globe suggests that, in view of the paper shortage, paper napkins might be eliminated. And that's a gain of a suggestion, too. The paper napkin is a miserable subterfuge, an abomination, in fact. We have yet to use one that we didn't penetrate either with nose or finger.

Pays to Advertise

Said the little yellow duck to the little red hen: "I haven't sold an egg since I don't know when. Business for me is a losing game, but you seem prosperous just the same." Said the little red hen to the little yellow duck: "Business isn't always a matter of luck. You work as hard and produce a line of eggs that are good as mine. Your merchandising methods you need to revise. If you want to be successful you must advertise. Don't wait for buyers for you, but tell your story the way I do."

The Deluge

The world again will be submerged in deluge. Life again will be destroyed. And a newer Noah will start things going again. This comes straight from Karl Brandler-Brecht, a German author of the book entitled "The Deluge; It Will Come Again." However, you need be in no hurry about building an ark, nor giving away your last summer's car. It will not happen until the year 3200. It will take about that long for Germany to pay her war debts.

Henpecking Women

We know a man who is so henpecked that he never says what he thinks unless he happens to say it without thinking.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A most ingenious Paradox.—Boston Globe.

More ingenious than that the greatest henpecking woman in the world would be astonished beyond measure if anyone were even to intimate that she wasn't the gentlest, sweetest and most considerate soul that ever went unpecked of wings.—Berkshire Eagle.

And we rise to remark that while a henpecking woman lays for her husband, a henpecked husband has nothing to crow over.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

I happened to be passing the Green school in Merrimack street Monday evening shortly before 7 o'clock and witnessed a sight that I believe is rarely duplicated in other cities of Lowell's size. The sidewalk in front of the school was black with young men and women eager to begin their fall work in evening school and the crowd extended even up to the very steps leading into the building. Those who made up the gathering seemed almost impatient because the doors had not yet opened, so eager were they to begin their work. I suppose a large number of them had only a few hours before left mills and factories and shops but the day's work evidently had not fatigued them. And above them waved a weather-beaten Old Glory, seeming to signify that the young people below were made of the stuff that has put the United States in her present position.

My attention has been called to an article in a recent issue of the Boston Transcript in which considerable space is devoted to the ideas and achievements of a Lowell man, John A. Stevens, the well known engineer, on the electrification of the eastern part of the United States. This has already been referred to in The Sun. Mr. Stevens' idea in a nutshell is the erection of a super-power central station where power will be generated for the entire surrounding country, effecting in this way a tremendous saving in the amount of coal necessary. The idea and the design for a proposed super-power station are set forth exhaustively in explanation and illustration by Mr. Stevens in recent articles in Power, one of the leading engineering papers of this country. Mr. Stevens shows the proposed stations and the economies to be expected therefrom in articles which are full of technical detail, but also contain other material concerning the scheme which will interest the layman. He says incidentally that "this development was conceived in 1917, but the idea lay dormant during the period of the war." The ideas and suggestions of many have been introduced into the design, showing the art and possibilities up to the present time.

I remember when I was a youngster and my first ambition was to become a chauffeur, I was very much interested in the "Stable" consisted of everything from the ordinary express wagon that used to hang up outside the hardware store to a specially built automobile "racer," that was propelled by a "mechanic" in the rear, but in every other respect had all the appointments of a regular motor car. From under in front to back, alongside the driver's seat I can remember watching the man who made it sweat night after night as he put the various parts together, but I certainly had my full quota of pleasure from it. Saturday afternoon, however, I saw a brand new kind of vehicle on Gorham street. It was constructed on the foundation of a very ordinary board and four ordinary wheels, but its motive power was none other than a huge, rolled piece of canvas, rolled up from it like the canvas of a sail. There was a fairly good breeze at the time and it was surprising how fast the "boat" sped down the street with a couple of joyful youngsters plotting it as though it were Lipton's own Shamrock.

MME. SCHUMANN HEINK

Program to Be Given by Mme. Schumann Heink at the Strand Theatre

The program which Mme. Schumann Heink will give at the Strand Theatre on Friday evening has been received by the managers of the concert. It is a magnificent program and shows the diva every opportunity to give her superb talents.

Mme. Schumann Heink will open her program with two familiar arias and Bach's wonderful work, "My Heart Ever Faithful." In addition she will give two groups of songs. The first group has pleasant surprises. The second group consists of Frank La Forge's best songs and includes the popular "Flanders Requiem" which answers the query raised by the poem, "In Flanders Fields." La Forge was at one time Mme. Schumann Heink's accompanist. In more recent years he has given himself almost entirely to composition with marked success.

But one of the eleven songs will be in Italian. The others are in English. The second group has many old favorites including Bizet's "Agnus Dei" and Lullaby's "Indian Love Song." George Morgan, the assisting baritone, has a generous part in the program but not because Mme. Schumann Heink wishes to spare herself. In addition to the numbers announced for her many requests have been received that she give some of her best like numbers such as "The Cry of the Heart," "Danny Boy," "The Rosary" and the aria from "Samson and Delilah," "My Heart At Thy Sweet Voice." These will be given as extras.

At Symphony hall on Sunday last Mme. Schumann Heink sang as well as she ever did. The conservative critic of the "Herald" had this to say Monday:

"That Mme. Schumann Heink has lost none of her extraordinary hold on the affection and admiration of the Boston musical public was vividly proved by the throng that crowded the hall in every part and filled the platform and all standing room. Nor were the keen interest in her singing and the spontaneous enthusiasm aroused by it, which have followed her for many years, one whit lacking."

Comment on her voice, her engaging sincerity, her fervor, the many elements of the striking personality which have made her popular, would be superfluous. They were all present as in the past and were greeted by the old time response of unstinted applause, hearty laughter, and the moisture of tears.

Mr. Morgan's fine baritone voice and the acceptable way he used it won warm approval.

Report Privileges of License Violated—Coffee House Proprietor Repelled for Employing Dancers

It has come to the attention of the license commissioners that owners of trucks and other vehicles for the conveyance of goods or rubbish within the city or between this city and other cities have been violating the privileges of their licenses and in other cases that some are carrying on business without a license. Investigation of these allegations will be carried out within the next week. The commissioners mentioned the fact that certain dealers were of the opinion that if such practice did not stop his license would be revoked.

Hear Building Commission

lural work has been supervised by competent engineers. There has been great co-operation between the architect and the contractor, Dr. Lambert said.

Mr. Casey asked how much money will be available after the general contractor is paid. Dr. Lambert said that exact figures could be obtained from the city auditor's office. He said that about $150,000 or $200,000 had been spent by the city government for land and buildings before the commission took charge.

"Do you anticipate being able to complete the building within your appropriation?" asked Mr. Casey.

"Yes, sir; we do anticipate and shall do that," said Dr. Lambert.

Mr. Casey asked Dr. Lambert to explain an expenditure of $1648.79 to William B. Itiner in 1919.

Chairman Lambert said that Mr. Itiner was employed by the commission as a consulting architect, so that the members might be sure that it had cut out every unnecessary expenditure. Mr. Itiner is considered the most expert schoolhouse architect in the country, he said.

Mr. Casey asked Dr. Lambert why Mayor Thompson was refused a copy of Mr. Itiner's recommendations.

"I prefer not to answer," said Dr. Lambert.

"Is there a copy of the recommendations available?"

"I presume so," said Dr. Lambert.

"Then, unless I am over-ruled by the majority of the members of the charter commission," said Mr. Casey, "I shall instruct our secretary to request your commission to send us a copy of the recommendations," continued Mr. Casey.

"Personally, I have no objection to that," said Dr. Lambert. "However, I should like to state at this time that the mayor was present at a meeting of the school committee and high school commission when the architect's report was read aloud."

"Don't you think the requirement of your commission, that any contractor who submitted a bid had to accompany it with a certified check of from $75,000 to $50,000 had something to do with the small number of bids you received?" queried Mr. Casey.

"Possibly," replied Dr. Lambert, "but I doubt that it had much to do with it. That would not bother large firms a great deal."

"But it might bother Lowell contractors," said Mr. Casey.

"It might," admitted Dr. Lambert.

Mr. Casey asked if the bid received by the commission was accompanied by a check of 5 per cent of the amount of the bid.

"It was not," replied Dr. Lambert. "We did not accept that bid. The bid we finally accepted was accompanied by a check."

"We took the advice of the law department in the matter," continued Dr. Lambert. "We think that the city is well protected by our requiring personal bonds of the general and sub-contractors."

"Why is it," asked Chairman Casey, "that the commission has approved a bill for $5,131.00 for the redrawing of plans submitted by Kimball Co., though the city solicitor has said in an opinion that it would be better for this matter to go to litigation, the bill being now held up for payment by the city auditor?"

Mr. Lambert replied that the commission felt in view of all the facts that the bill was a just one and should be paid.

Dr. Lambert said that there is a bill of $16,000 for architect's services in revising plans still pending.

The new high school will take care of the city's children for about 20 years, Dr. Lambert said. He gave a detailed description of what the building is to contain.

In response to a question from Mr. O'Donnell, Dr. Lambert said that the power and lighting plant, originally planned, has been cut out with the approval of the school committee.

The total housing capacity of the old and new buildings, he said, will be 3000. The contract let by the commission provides for the removal of 15 furnaces from the old high school building, the complete wiring of the old building and the new, and the installation of a new heating plant.

Believes in Present Charter

Dr. Lambert, as a private citizen, said that he was an emphatic believer in the present form of charter.

"The small number of men in the council and school committee," he said, "will do better work than a large body of men. The present charter places responsibility on a very few men." He did not believe in the secret ballot, he said.

The small number of men in a governing body makes a short ballot and prevents confusion, he maintained. The voters are able to know more about the men for whom they are voting when there are only a few candidates, he said.

He also favored a school committee of few members. The school department finances should be divorced from other finances. He believed in a separate school tax so that the committee would have to live within its appropriation.

He believed that school buildings should be controlled by an appointive commission. He thought also that the department should have its own purchasing agent. He did not make that statement as any reflection on the present purchasing agent.

He did not believe that any one man should handle the city's finances. The mayor might have the right to bring in the annual budget and might have some veto power, he thought.

Dr. Lambert said that the council should serve without pay. The head of a department should have complete control over that department, he thought.

Other Commissioners Agree

Dr. Joseph E. Lamoureux, another member of the high school commission, had nothing to add to Dr. Lambert's remarks. Personally, he said, he favored the present charter.

He would give the mayor the veto power.

John J. Mullane, also a member of the commission, said he could not see how the new high school could be erected in 1918 within the appropriation then available.

Relative to the refusal of the commission to submit to Mr. Itiner's report to the mayor, Mr. Mullane said that the bill creating the commission provided that it should report from time to time to the city council and for that reason he did not see why the mayor any more than other members of the council, should be given a copy of the recommendations.

The chairman asked if he did not believe the recommendations should have been sent to the mayor purely out of courtesy.

Mr. Mullane said that he had no intention of showing any disrespect to the mayor. In fact, the mayor was invited to be present at a meeting of the commission when Mr. Itiner was present.

The architect's fee will reach about $70,000, Mr. Mullane said, but he is not receiving anywhere near the amount that he and other architects receive for similar work.

Mr. Mullane said he believed in two chambers in the government and an executive with veto power. The present charter gives three men too much power. He believed the mayor should have the appointing of department heads subject to confirmation.

John A. Stevens, also a member of the commission, said that Mr. Itiner was considered an international expert in his line. At his personal expense, Mr. Stevens said, he inspected a great many of the leading high schools in the eastern part of the country, after becoming a member of the high school commission.

Timothy F. O'Sullivan, secretary of the commission, said that Mr. Itiner was highly recommended. Originally it had been the plan of the commission to restrict bids to Lowell contractors, he said, but later bids were thrown open to everybody. Much of the interior equipment of the school has already arrived and been paid for, Mr. O'Sullivan said.

Mr. Farrington asked if it were not unusual to pay for equipment two years before it is to be used; especially under a contract.

Mr. O'Sullivan said that the commission had believed that a saving might be effected in that way.

"A saving for whom?" asked Mr. Farrington.

"For the contractor," replied Mr. O'Sullivan.

"But it wouldn't make any difference to the city," said Mr. Farrington.

"No," said Mr. O'Sullivan.

Henry L. Bourke, architect, gave a detailed description of the new building. It will contain approximately 100 rooms, he said.

The old and new buildings will be connected by a corridor. The revised plans call for a flat roof on the new building. Many eliminations have had to be made to erect the building within the available funds, he said.

Work on the building has progressed very well under present conditions, Mr. Bourke said. He had every reason to believe that the building will be completed within the available appropriations. The city has $120,000 worth of protection if the contractors should fail to carry out their agreements.

Mr. Casey said that he questioned whether all Lowell contractors had a fair chance to bid on the building.

Mr. Bourke was evasive and it was voted that members of the school committee, the superintendent of schools and the business agent of the school department be requested to attend the next session of the commission on Friday evening.

THE DEATH PENALTY

Abolition of Death Penalty for Murder Sought in Petition to be Widely Circulated

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, Oct. 6.—Abolition of the death penalty for murder is to be sought through an initiative petition, soon to be set in circulation throughout the state.

Plans for circulating the petition are being made by Mrs. Florence Spooner of Boston, long known as the "angel of the prisons." For years she has pleaded with successive legislatures to pass an act repealing the death sentence, and having tired of her repeated defeats, now plans to invoke the initiative and referendum amendment of the constitution.

To place the matter before the voters, it will be necessary to obtain before the first Wednesday in December the signatures of at least 20,000 registered voters. With such a petition, the bill is first considered by the legislature, and failing of passage there, an additional 5000 signatures must be obtained. With this aggregate of 25,000 signatures, the matter would go before all the voters of the commonwealth at the election in 1922, for their acceptance or rejection.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS SCHOOL.

The complete registration figures for the Knights of Columbus evening school now show a total number of students amounting to 400. The registration books closed last night. The majority of the young men who have signed up for the courses are ex-servicemen, but many others, civilians, will receive instruction at cost. The classification of students, the securing of quarters within the next week and the notification of students for the opening session, it is thought at present that a class in salesmanship might be started although such instruction was not included in the original plans.

PLAN RECRUITING DRIVE

An executive meeting of the members of the French Canadian A.C.F. was held here yesterday at the quarters of the organization at the corner of Main street and Ontario avenue with President Maurice Bolduc in the chair. The meeting was held to discuss the plan for a recruiting drive, which was made by General Organiser J. A. Dupont of Quebec, N. H., and Charles E. Blount, who has just returned from Ottawa, Ont., where for several years he was engaged in government work. Organiser Dupont informed his listeners that plans were being formulated by the general board of officers for a monster recruiting drive, which will be started within a short time in all centers in Canada and this country where there are local units of the organization. He said in a couple of weeks President General Rodolphe Bedard of Montreal will come to Lowell and it is expected that at that time a mass meeting of all the branches of the organization in this city will be held.

NERVE WEAKNESS A CURSE TO THE NATION

"Mentally and physically the bodies of nerve-exhausted, weak, run-down, prematurely old people are craving for simple organic phosphorus," says a physician.

There are ten million people in America today who are weak, nervous, lack energy and ambition, and are too exhausted mentally and physically to keep up their end in the modern battle of life.

These people need, according to physicians who have made a close study of present day living, a little organic phosphorus with their food, for a few weeks. When this is absorbed in the system, it becomes quickly converted into healthy living tissue full of renewed energy and vigorous nerve force.

Thousands of people are finding this out every day, especially in the large cities where druggists report a surprising large sale of bitro-phosphate, which is the one organic phosphate of the purest form best known to the public.

Phosphorus is vitally necessary to every living cell in the body, and especially the nerve cells.

It aids in strengthening disordered nerves, invigorating the brain cells and bringing that much admired "keenness of mind."

Thin, restless people need Bitro-Phosphate most, for when nerve force is present, nerve cells are energized and complete rest is possible. It means more sleep where more rest is needed. A. W. Davis and every druggist knows all about plain Bitro-Phosphate, for people are fast learning that simple remedies are best.

DO NOT EXPECT EARLY DEATH OF MACSWINEY

LONDON, Oct. 6. (By the Associated Press).—The condition of Terence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork, incarcerated in Brixton prison, remained unchanged last night.

Authentic information regarding Mayor MacSwiney's fast continues to be confined to cryptic statements issued by the home office and the somewhat more elaborate bulletins from the London headquarters of the Irish Self-Determination League.

The statements from both of these sources have been for some time of a rather stereotyped form, replete with the words "weakened," "exhausted" and "prostrate," but inquiries yesterday afternoon in both quarters brought words that neither government officials nor the MacSwiney family are seriously concerned over the immediate danger of the prisoner's death.

MAKES BROAD STATEMENT

Rev. Chauncey J. Hawkins Tells of Reactionary Spirit Toward Progress of Vital Religious Knowledge Here

"You can look America over and you will find a city of the size and importance of Lowell where there is more of the reactionary spirit toward the progress of vital religious knowledge, or in which there is more interpretation of religion," said Rev. Chauncey J. Hawkins at a meeting of the Lowell Congregational club in the Pawtucket church last evening. The statement was made during an address on "God's Call to the Congregational Churches of America."

In opening his address Dr. Hawkins pleaded for a revival of the spirit of the Puritans in the Congregational churches of the city. He said that the

HAPPY MOTHER TELLS OF SON'S RECOVERY

15-Year-Old John Bramwell Was in Badly Run Down Condition When He Began Taking Tanlac—In Perfect Health Now

"I don't like much to have my name in the papers, but since Tanlac has restored my son to health, I feel like it's my duty to let others know about it for we have heard of the medicine through the statements of other people," declared Mrs. Thomas Bramwell, of 1 Warwick street, New Bedford, Mass.

"My fifteen year old son, John, was in a very badly run down condition for several months, and it was only when we got Tanlac that he regained his health. He didn't have any appetite, and the little he did eat didn't seem to give him any nourishment or strength, and he became very weak and pale."

"At times he became so nauseated he could scarcely retain a bit of food on his stomach, and he got very thin. He was so awfully nervous that he Puritans came to America not primarily for religious motives but to found a Christian community and a church established on the eternal moral laws of God."

Dr. Hawkins condemned well-to-do citizens who live pews in the churches and spend their time playing golf on Sundays. He said that people want sermons and not sermons, and that the cry for the preaching of a pure gospel comes from people who do not want a religion that will touch the foundations of their living."

The speaker denounced extravagant display on the part of the wealthy classes. "The chief instigators of social revolution—much more dangerous than the man who drops a bomb in Wall street—are people of the idle, spendthrift, intolent, social class," he stated.

A tendency to make Congregational churches over into Episcopal churches was condemned by the speaker. Dr. Hawkins asserted that Lowell protestantism is at present largely in the control of reactionary clergymen. He said that the School of Religious Education that was opened some time ago was compelled to give up its sessions because "the leaders of religion thought in the city refused to let in the least glimmer of light of the modern, informed mind." "That is the attitude," he continued, "that in the end will be the ruin of protestantism."

The club meeting was presided over by Haven G. Hill, the newly elected president. Music was provided by an orchestra made up of young women members of the Pawtucket church.

couldn't rest well at night, and would even walk in his sleep. He was always complaining of feeling hot and of being tired out, and we were very much worried over his condition."

"I saw where Tanlac was helping so many people I decided to start John on it, and his appetite began to pick up on the very first bottle. Well, after taking two bottles he was improving right along in every way, and when he had finished the fifth bottle he just seemed like a different boy altogether. He has a big appetite now, and just eats anything he wants without complaining a bit of indigestion. He has a good healthy color in his face, and is just as bright and cheerful as anyone."

"The nervousness seems to have left him entirely for he sleeps good and sound all night long. He never complains of being tired out, but is full of life and energy, and seems to be feeling fine all the time. I'm just as grateful to Tanlac as I can be for putting him in such good health, and I only hope that this statement will lead others to try the medicine and get relief from their troubles also."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Greens Drug Store, Merrimack square, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative and by the leading druggists in every town.—Adv.

Mrs. A. T. Howe and H. A. Buell sang a duet with Sidney B. Fleet as accompanist.

During the evening a report was presented by the secretary of the club containing a tribute to the memory of the late Arthur K. Whitcomb. S. H. Thompson made an appeal for a "no" vote on the referendum on the so-called beer bill that is to appear on the ballots at the state election in November.

During the evening addresses were delivered by Miss Frances E. McNair,
